Eagles enter league

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus Eagles apparently can now build its nest in the controversial MEGA League, a regional sports division containing 23 teams.

Superintendent Dr. William Bedell said he met with two lawyers representing the MEGA League last Friday, while school was out because of the heavy snowstorm. With Romulus now technically in the league, the lawyers said the search will now begin for a 24th team to even out the divisions.

Asked when Romulus would be allowed to enter the league that contains several divisions, Bedell said "as far as I know it is immediately."

If the information proves to be true, Bedell expects to cancel the two anti-discrimination lawsuits the district has filed with the Michigan Civil Rights Commission and the National Department of Education Civil Rights unit.

The lawsuits are considered part of the battle for entrance into the league which is made up primarily of Wayne County schools.

Bedell had said earlier that Romulus was being passed over for MEGA League membership because of its 35 percent Afro-American school population.

Romulus meanwhile countered with the fact that the Eagles now have one of the finest athletic complexes in the county and have been recipients of various letters of commendation from other school district officials for their good sportsmanship.

In his initial outcry Bedell had said the only other Wayne County high school to be ignored was Highland Park, which is 99.95 Afro-American students.

Romulus Athletic Director Jesse Meriweather said he has had many positive comments from MEGA League officials about entry in the sports competitions in recent months, but has yet to receive an official letter. "Until I get that letter which states we are in written in black and white, I remain a little cautious."

"We expect to be involved this fall, but nothing is cast in stone yet," he said.

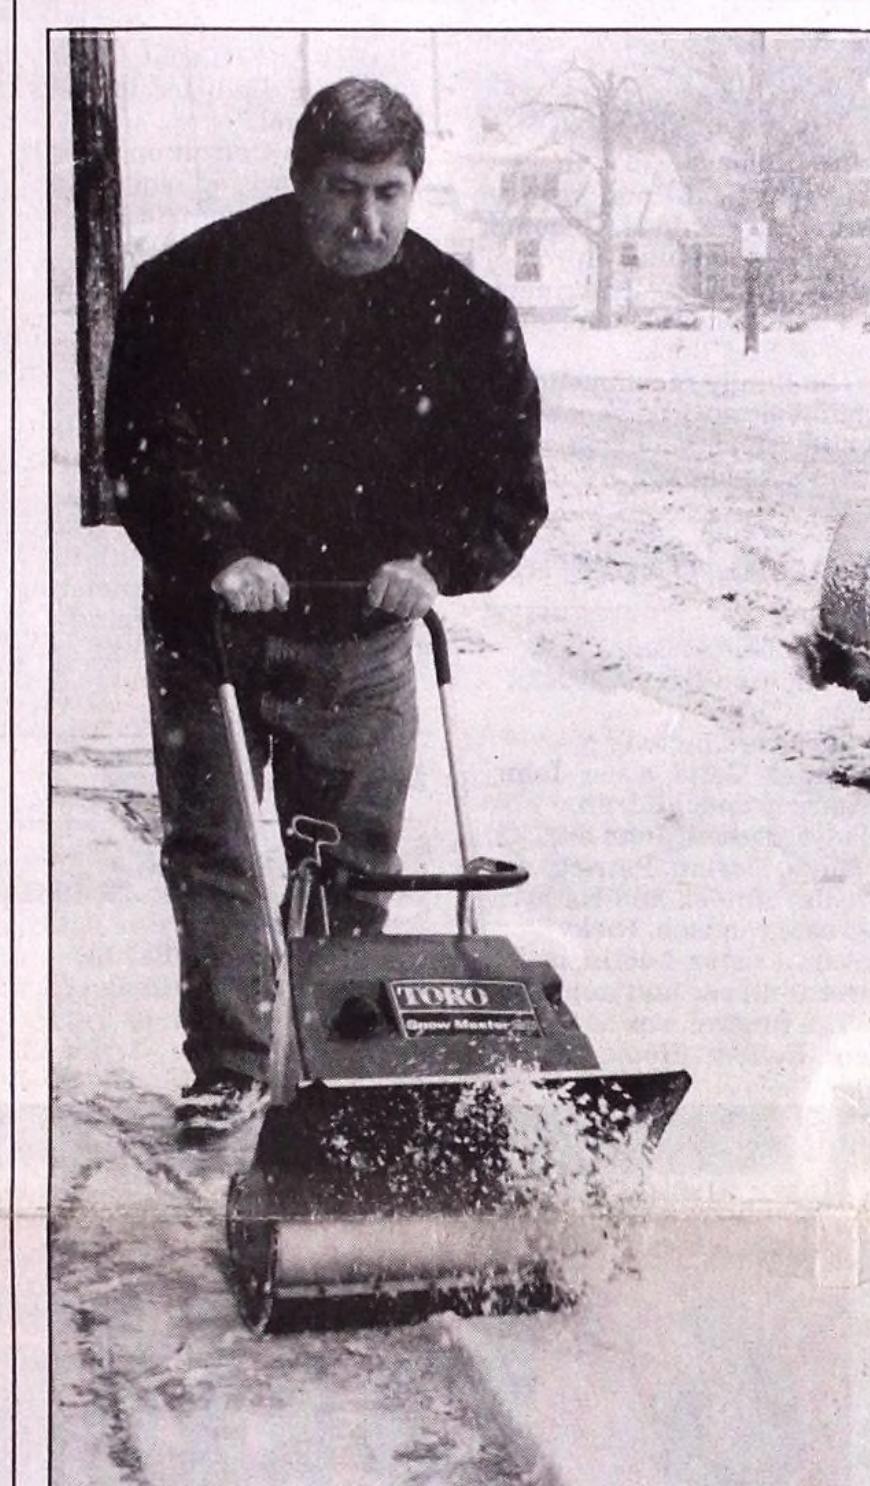

Bedell said he was told by the MEGA League lawyers that the Eagles also need to offer three 9th grade sports teams each for both boys and girls.

He expects it to be football, basketball and baseball for the boys and volleyball, basketball and softball for the girls.

Snow job

Romulus businessman Andy Jartz didn't let much snow pile up under his feet last Friday, when he pulled out his trusty snowblower and began removing the slippery stuff from his front sidewalk. It appears Jartz will be given the opportunity to repeat this action several times this week, local weathermen say. ANP photo by Ken Gamer

Eureka road work to begin in spring

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The almost $4 million Eureka Road reconstruction project slated to begin this April was supported once again by the City Council Monday night, despite some mild disclaimers about the $46,000 cost assessment for the city.

The construction effort filed under Wayne County's Road Improvement Program will include widening and reconstruction of Eureka Road from Wahrman Road to approximately 1.2 miles east of the Wayne Road/Detroit Metro Airport South Access Road.

The road project is expected to take most of the summer for completion.

He expects it to be football, basketball and baseball for the boys and volleyball, basketball and softball for the girls.

Among the additions included are the widening of some areas to five lanes and the relocation of Vining Road at Eureka Road to provide a two-lane roadway with five-foot graveled shoulders.

While some councilmen complained the project wasn't suppose to cost the city a dime, McAnally said, the $46,000 figure comes from the county's agreement to relocate approximately 3,800 feet of city water main and installation of gate valves and hydrants.

Since the current water main system is more than 30 years old, McAnally said, the county offer is a fantastic deal for the city.

Alzheimer's patient defrauded of $375,000

A 34-year-old Romulus woman has been charged with stealing more than $375,000 from the bank savings of a Alzheimer's Disease victim she had been hired to care for, Romulus police said.

The suspect, Kathy Frye, was hired several years ago by the 78-year-old victim's husband to provide daily care for

3-year-old discharged gun that killed brother

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The tragic and mysterious events leading up to the shooting death of 6-year-old James Allen Hunt have apparently been finalized, police said, as the victim's 3-year-old stepbrother admitted to a family member that it was he who actually tripped the trigger of the 12-gauge shotgun.

In addition the Wayne County Prosecutor's office has ordered the arrest of the gun owner, Scott Martin, 28, who resides in the Oak Brook Townhouse area of Romulus, on an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Assistant Prosecutor Nancy Diehl would only say that Martin is accused of being grossly negligent with the gun within his home and allowed it to be touched by the two small children.

Martin was arrested last Thursday and arraigned before 34th District Court Judge William Szilins. He was ordered held in $10,000 personal bond with a preliminary hearing slated for Jan. 19.

The latest disclosure provided a bizarre twist to the sad post-Christmas disaster for Cheryl Benitez, 26-year-old mother of the two young boys.

Romulus police were puzzled for several days as to how the victim could have pulled the trigger of the large gun, described as being almost as tall as he was.

The size of the gun and the angle of James Hunt's head wound had police in a quandary as to how he could have pulled the trigger himself.

Martin had reportedly carried the loaded shotgun into his home for safety purposes only hours prior to the fatal shooting, Detective Lt. Kenneth Kraus said, after Benitez had received a threatening message.

Police said Martin was asked various questions about the gun by the six-year-old and was busy explaining information about the gun, when the telephone rang.

Martin placed the gun down without employing a safety device, police were told, when he answered the phone.

At first it was assumed that the youngster accidentally pulled the trigger himself, but later the question surfaced about who pulled the trigger because of the size of the weapon (almost the same size as the victim) and the angle of the head wound.

The three-year-old half-brother's comments ended the mystery, police revealed.

Other elements in the shooting caper, including the possible reason for needing the gun are expected to be revealed at the Jan. 19 hearing.

Snyder said the shotgun has been sent to a lab for tests prior to Martin's court appearance.

Diehl said part of the bail arrangement was that Martin is no longer to have guns in his apartment.

In April 1992, Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair decided to charge adults in such cases in an effort to bring some public attention to rash of gun accidents involving children.

However, O'Hair admits that his campaign has not shown tremendous public acceptance. Many "feel we are compounding the tragedy," O'Hair said.

While Martin faces a sentence ranging from probation to 15 years in prison, history is on his side showing that very few have been jailed in such cases.

Person of Year

Chamber honors thrift store operator

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Thirty years of dedicated work as founder and director of the Helping Hand Thrift Shop has culminated in having Florence Klein named the 14th Person of the Year by the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Mark Lewkowicz in announcing Klein's award, said the Helping Hand Thrift Shop provides food and clothing to those in need free of charge and directs the needy to necessary agencies for assistance with other problems.

Klein's unrevealed nominator said she "has worked tirelessly and unselfishly to help those in need in our community. She is a living example of one who has literally put Christian charity into practice."

The award winner was informed of her honor Jan. 6 at a luncheon at the Romulus

House Restaurant, at which time she was presented with a dozen roses by chamber leaders.

The nominating committee, which selected Klein, included Lewkowicz, Landis Machine Shop owner and operator; Bill Crane, the honoree last year and owner of Crane's Funeral Home; Dave Paul, Romulus building and safety director; Jason Lovette, former honoree and chamber treasurer; Dolores Witzgall, Polka Dot Party Pantry owner; and Donna Hoevemeyer, Romulus Postmaster.

The thrift shop is dependent on private donations for work with the needy, Klein said, and it also generates operational revenue through the sale of recycled clothing, toys and books.

New administrator to begin

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Veteran Michigan court administrator Michael Ramsey, 44, will get his first major look tomorrow at his 34th District Court duties and his support staff, as he prepares to repair the trouble-plagued image and daily practices of the court.

While Ramsey actually began his duties Monday, he has spent the first three days of his tenure here at a Lansing conference with newly named Chief Judge Felix Rogalle.

Last Wednesday Ramsey began unpacking his official materials shortly after noon in preparation for accepting the "challenge" of correcting the problem plagued court system that recently suffered a $260,000 plus shortfall in court funds.

Ramsey, who has more than 20 years experience in various Michigan courts, won out over close to 300 applicants in recent months to succeed Nancy Schuette as the new 34th District Court administrator.

Schuette resigned her post this summer after being on paid leave since March, when then Chief Judge William Szilins asked for an audit of the court financial records by the Michigan State Supreme Court.

Schuette's deputy administrator, Tammy Riopelle, also was on paid leave until her job was abolished late this summer.

A criminal investigation also was conducted by Michigan State Police, but the results of that probe have remained secret.

Courteous taxi driver sought

A recent Japanese visitor to Detroit Metro Airport is seeking to reward a courteous taxi driver with a "thank you" dinner.

Kenichiro Shinoda of Tokyo and his wife visited the area in September and reported his "experience was completely different from what we had read about the Detroit area."

He wrote "the people were kind and the service was good."

Shinoda wrote "we would like the Romulus Roman to help us find the taxi driver who gave us a ride from the Holiday Inn midmorning on Friday Sept. 24 to the Northwest Terminal at Metro Airport."

He continued "the fare was $30 and I gave the driver $40, intending him to keep a $10 tip for his good service. As we entered the terminal the driver suddenly appeared to return our $10 'change', Shinoda said.

If possible, he urged, "we would like our kind driver to contact our friends at Suzuki, Myers and Associates, Ltd, who in turn will invite him to dinner in the area."

Shinoda said the company representatives can be reached by using the Japanese "hot line" at the International Terminal, just north of the passenger exists from the Customs area.

Beautify Romulus Day completed

More than 60 Romulus Senior High School students and staff members joined in a program known as "Beautify Romulus Day."

The volunteer workers trimmed trees, moved shrubbery, landscaped vacant areas, dug dirt and planted almost 700 spring-flowering bulbs.

The volunteers were presented with an official volunteer thank you certificate.

"The focus of the day (Nov. 6) was to add finishing touches to the school grounds as the high school construction nears completion," Kathy Hurst, Project SERVE director, said.

"As you drive by the high school in the spring, please take time to stop and admire the flowers and then join us in our spring clean-up."

High School offers literary magazine

The Romulus Senior High School Creative Writing team is creating a literary magazine that will be distributed throughout the community next year.

"This is the first year we are attempting this type of project," class adviser Ron Bayes said, "and it will benefit us greatly, teaching us job skills and responsibility we will need later in life."

"Not only will it improve our writing, but it will help us in cooperative learning, teaching us to deal with the professional business world," Bayes added.

A fund raiser is planned next year to help supplement the $4,000 to $6,000 in school funds, he said.

$115,000 and $114,000 had apparently been switched from an account owned by the victim and her husband to an account operated by the victim and Frye.

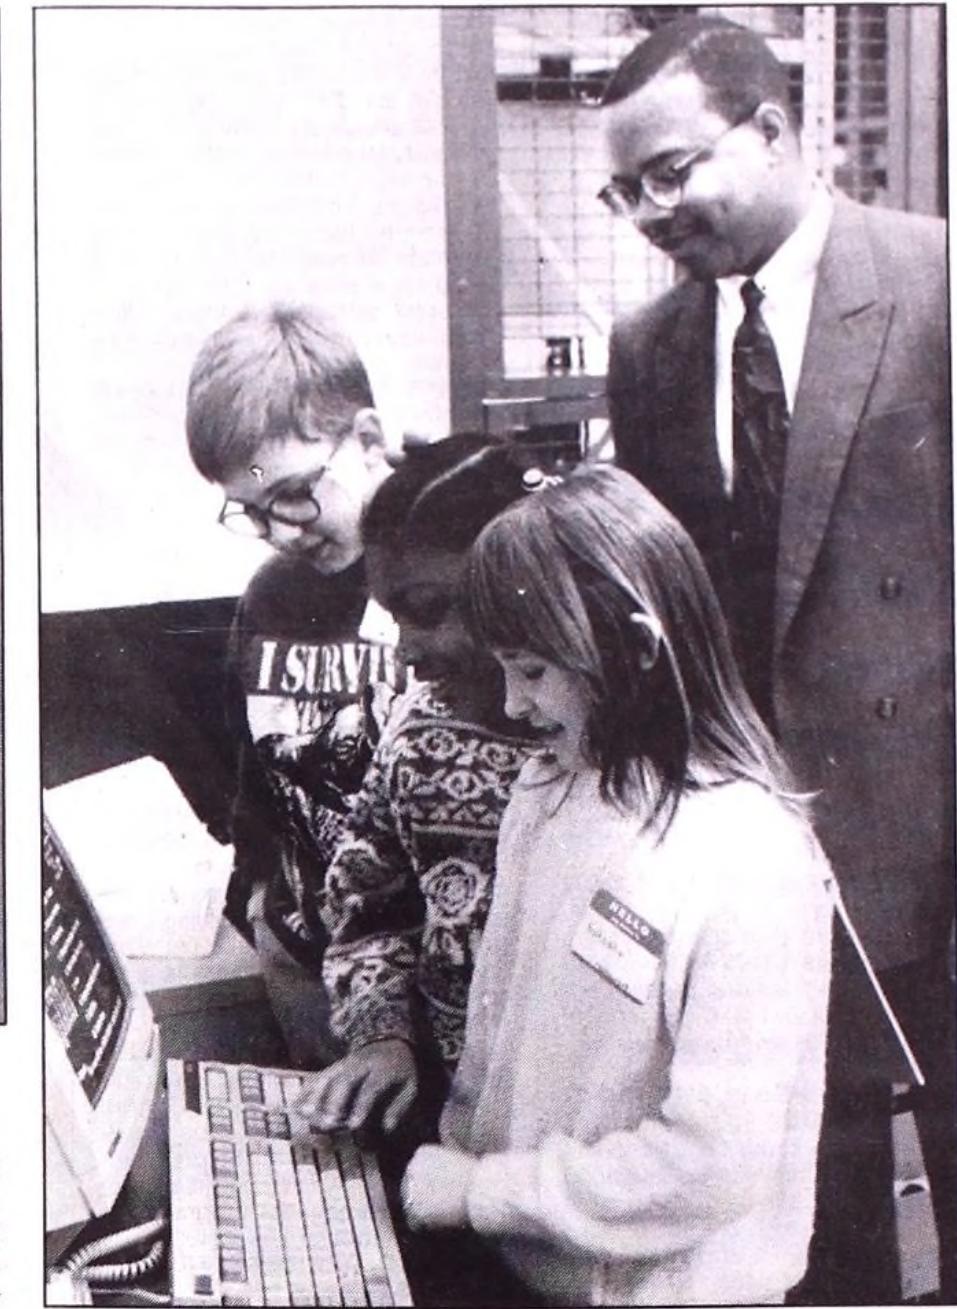

Other missing monies possibly were lost by having the victim write out checks to cash, Snyder said.

The new accounts were then apparently emptied by Frye, police charge.

The larcenies took place during a two-year period, Snyder said.

The official charge, Snyder said, is larceny over $100. Frye was arrested on Dec. 22 and arraigned the same day. Her preliminary hearing is slated for Jan. 19 in 34th District Court.

Frye is currently out on $10,000 personal bond.

Students plan to honor King

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Various student and community programs have been planned to honor the late civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King next Monday in Romulus schools.

High School Principal Thomas Dolan revealed that the National Honor Society, under the direction of Alberta Garrett, will present an assembly for the student body, administration and faculty.

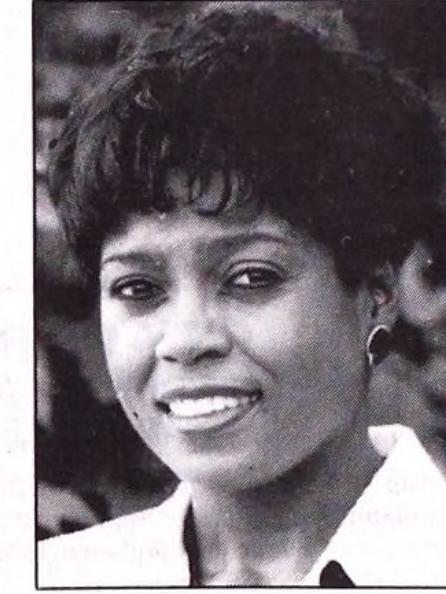

The assembly will incorporate readings, music and dance numbers that center on the issues of pride and peace, two key elements of Mr. King's life, Dolan said.

An afternoon program will feature many multi-cultural activities at Cory and Halecreek Elementary Schools and the high school under the coordination of Phyllis Wilkerson.

Then at 5:30 p.m. under the auspices of Kathy Hurst, coordinator of community volunteers and the junior class, a Peace Pole dedication and candlelight vigil will be conducted on the front lawn of the high school.

Following that program, the Romulus community will gather at 6 p.m. in the school auditorium for a program that will focus on community pride and peace issues under the direction of Gwen Siebert, city cable commissioner.

Gwen Siebert

The final event is open to the public, Siebert said, and several hundred persons are expected to attend the celebration.

"As a result," Omarzu said, "some make improper left turns onto westbound Huron River Drive, cutting directly across the traffic which has the right-of-way, traveling south from Goddard to Huron River. All involved in the council discussion Monday night leaned toward instituting additional traffic signs.

McAnally, Dansby had served as chief since Jan. 2, 1989.

The Romulus Roman was renamed the official city newspaper by a vote of 5-1 of city council members. Councilman Noah (Pete) Bergeron was absent when the vote was taken.

A record of more than $21,000 was collected by more than 320 walkers in the annual Romulus-Belleville CROP walk for the hungry.

Two Detroit teens were found guilty of murder in a bench trial concerning the shooting death of Romulus teenager Bayette (Yogi) Elrod last March.

Councilman Noah (Pete) Bergeron informed Romulus Environmentalists Care About People (RECAP) member Steve Lewkowicz that he will not surrender his vote on environmental injection well issues despite an alleged conflict of interest stemming from the purchase of the property for the well from Bergeron's father-in-law.

A fire destroyed an old Romulus dance hall that most recently was being used as a flea market on Middlebelt Road.

Romulus Parks and Recreation Director Duwayne Martin announced he will be retiring on Jan. 28, 1994.

Control Unit of the 34th District Court, including Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally, remain angry and frustrated by the lack of information provided them by the district court judges.

McAnally has charged that Szlinis also had a second audit of the court finances done by a private firm and has failed to share its findings with the control unit.

While admitting she had not met the new administrator yet Monday night, McAnally asked, "One of the things I want to know is what is he going to do about the $200,000 the court owes the city of Romulus?"

Ramsey explained that he is familiar with the past problems in the 34th District and has a history of correcting such problems.

Ramsey, who most recently served as court administrator of the 55th District Court in Ingham County, said his strength of being a "problem solver" fits in tightly with the needs of the local court.

On Thursday, Ramsey said he will begin his "open door" policy as court administrator in Romulus.

Ramsey, who reported he underwent a rigorous questioning process by the screening committee and a second interview session by the three judges, said he feels fully able and qualified to take on the task of tightening up financial and security procedures inside the court house.

While serving as court house leader, media communication chief and judicial advisor, Ramsey explained "I also serve at the beck and call of the judges."

A graduate of Lansing Community College, Ramsey is currently attending Central Michigan University, seeking a degree in public administration.

He also is one of only about 600 persons who have graduated from the Court Executive Development program. The studies are sponsored by the U.S. Supreme Court.

He and 19 others created an extensive study entitled "Case Flow Management - A Practitioner's Guide," a reference book which has been sent to all of the state's district, probate and circuit courts for official use.

Ramsey, who will soon be moving to Belleville, currently is single and the father of two teenage children.

Outside of the court house, Ramsey enjoys running and playing squash. "Other than that I consider myself the Detroit Red Wings No. 1 fan," he said.

New traffic signs requested

Romulus city leaders spoke out in favor Monday night of adding traffic signs to eliminate possible head-on crashes in the Five Points area.

The concept was first sent to Mayor Beverly McAnally and the City Council last Oct. 9 by city resident, Charles A. Omarzu.

Omarzu said "inadequate traffic signs at the Five Points intersection could well be a contributory factor in accidents there."

The writer continued, "The signs are inadequate because there is nothing which directs northbound drivers on Huron River Drive to yield to oncoming southbound drivers on Goddard Road."

Former 34th District Court Administrator Tamara Sue Riopelle called a press conference in Southgate and declared her innocence in the audit- state police criminal probe of the court financial dealings.

She also announced she had applied for the administrator position, since her former job was abolished.

Council candidate Michael Prybyla pulled the biggest win of his life, as he extricated the "you are elected" slip out of a box, after it was revealed hours earlier that he and candidate Mary Collins finished in a dead heat.

A Romulus man, William Mancine Jr., was beaten to death in a Flat Rock apartment rented by his girlfriend. The woman was also injured by the attackers.

Romulus teenager Diane Lynn Banks was killed in a traffic accident in Lake City in Clair County.

Romulus Police Chief Fred Dansby failed to win reappointment from Mayor Beverly McAnally. Dansby had served as chief since Jan. 2, 1989.

The Romulus Roman was renamed the official city newspaper by a vote of 5-1 of city council members. Councilman Noah (Pete) Bergeron was absent when the vote was taken.

A record of more than $21,000 was collected by more than 320 walkers in the annual Romulus-Belleville CROP walk for the hungry.

Two Detroit teens were found guilty of murder in a bench trial concerning the shooting death of Romulus teenager Bayette (Yogi) Elrod last March.

Councilman Noah (Pete) Bergeron informed Romulus Environmentalists Care About People (RECAP) member Steve Lewkowicz that he will not surrender his vote on environmental injection well issues despite an alleged conflict of interest stemming from the purchase of the property for the well from Bergeron's father-in-law.

A 20-year-old Dearborn Heights man, Hamilton Blackburn, died in a gun mishap inside the Merriman Executive Inn.

Romulus teen, Michael Tomason, 20, was given two years probation on charges he dropped a Romulus girl into a bonfire at his 18th birthday party.

An end-of-the year tragedy was reported as a 6-year-old boy, James Allen Hunt, reportedly accidentally fired a shotgun into his own head. He died instantly.

Mayor Beverly McAnally revealed the city of Romulus would keep all its options open on trying to attract Detroit Tiger owner Mike Ilitch to build a new stadium in Romulus, if the Detroit plans falter.

Editor's note: This concludes a three-week wrap-up of major stories and photos that made news in and about Romulus and its residents during the year of 1993. The series began in the Dec. 29, 1993 edition of the Romulus Roman and continued in the Jan. 5 edition.

Local Girl Scouts prepare for annual door-to-door cookie sale

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

More than 13,000 girls are trying to "make it happen" in western Wayne, Washtenaw, Livingston and Monroe counties.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is one of 333 councils across the nation that will be learning new skills and responsibility while earning money to support special events. Girl Scouts in Canton Township, Romulus, Belleville and Wayne will be going door-to-door and setting up booths during the annual cookie sale in February and March. Advance orders will be taken through the end of this month. At $2.50 a box, cookie lovers can chose between seven types including Thin Mint, Peanut Butter Sandwich, Shortbread, Carmel deLite, Peanut Butter Patties and new flavors, Strawberries 'n Cream and Lemon Pastry Creams.

"They've all gone over real well in the office," said JoAnn Beurmann, product sales and special events manager for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. "And it's OK to stock up. The cookies are made without artificial colors and can be frozen for future enjoyment."

For 50 years, Girl Scouts have relied on the proceeds from cookie sales to fund their projects.

"Fifty-nine percent of the Girl Scout budget comes from the cookie sale," said Beurmann, "but we're trying to get away from that."

According to Beurmann, Girl Scout cookies account for 20-percent of cookies sold across the nation annually.

The Scouts, aged 6 through 17, were trained prior to selling.

"All the girls (approximately 8,000) were taught selling techniques," said Beurmann, "and before they go out, they do role playing."

The Virginia based cookie supplier, ABS Bakers, provided troops with selling and safety information.

Money derived from the sale has historically provided math, science and aeronautic programs for the girls.

"We try to introduce things to girls they wouldn't normally come into contact with," said Lisa Miron Wack, public relations manager for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

"We do things for all age groups," added Val Kabat, fund development, "and we're doing more than just cookies and camp."

14 named to academy panel

Congressman William D. Ford, D-13, has appointed 14 citizens from the district to a panel that will nominate candidates for admission to the United States service academies.

The group includes committee veterans Randy Gear of Romulus, David Madrid of Westland and David Alexander of Inkster plus Sue Shaw, Peter Darrow, Bob Galardi, Jack Goodfallow and Jim Petrie.

Joining the group this year are Pete Foster of Belleville, Joyce Willis and Jake Dingeldey of Canton Township and Tom Kelly of Wayne plus Mary Louise Foley and Ruth Moorman of Ypsilanti.

ANNIVERSARIES

Mary, Val Walker

Val, Mary Walker

Val and Mary (Glancey) Walker, formerly of Romulus, recently celebrated their 45th anniversary in Lowell.

The Walkers were married on Nov. 27, 1948 in St. Rita's Church of Detroit. Currently residents of Lowell, they formerly also lived in Inkster and Dearborn. They were formerly active with St. John the Baptist Catholic Church of Dearborn Heights.

Walker, a retired Ford Motor Co. employee, also is a U.S. Army veteran of World War II, serving mostly in Japan in the Pacific campaign.

They have two children, Michael Walker and Deborah Hagerty. They also have five grandchildren, Jeremy, Daniel and Matthew Walker and Mary Elizabeth and Crystal Dawn Hagerty.

Deep Controversy:

A Student Editorial On the Injection Well

As a student in Romulus and co-editor of the Eagle Press, I read through a lot of information everyday, but when reading our first article, "Is the injection well going to be leaving Romulus choking", issue #1, 1993 in the Eagle Press and being raised to be environmentally conscious, I became very interested in the well.

After reading through many interesting articles, researching other wells, watching both videos released by the Environmental Disposal System (EDS), and Romulus Environmentalist Citizens Against Pollution (RECAP), and visiting both groups, my conclusion is that a Class I disposal well located in Romulus will be good for the community.

In my view, the well will bring our community more job opportunities (testers, security, transportation, etc.). New companies will look to locate, or relocate here in Romulus due to the well.

Of utmost concern to most citizens is the environment. Instead of companies dumping behind their businesses or throwing away waste because of high shipping cost, and high dumping cost, more people will be using the well for dumping, which will ultimately result in a cleaner environment.

Class I injection wells have been found to be the safest wells made, they also seem to be profitable to their communities.

I also understand the views of concerned people in Romulus, but if you don't want to visit the well, or take time out to research, or listen to the facts, how do you ever expect to know what is going on in your community? I also think that if everyone is so worried that the Department of Natural Resources, and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), aren't going to follow up on their check-ups that you as concerned residents of Romulus should form a group to check and test the well not just sit and complain about nobody doing it.

"My mind is already made up. Don't confuse me with the facts."

It's a funny thing about some people. They form swift and strong opinions, but if you ask them why, they don't have real reasons.

Here in Romulus, some people have convinced themselves that the deep disposal well being built by Environmental Disposal Systems may not be safe. They base that opinion on a vague sense of uneasiness over waste disposal, not on factual information.

We at EDS think the people of Romulus should have the facts before making up their minds.

- Like the fact that there has never been a single incident of contamination from such a well in 25 years of deep well disposal at sites through-out Michigan.
- Or the fact that deep well disposal is the safest, cost effective option available for industrial liquid and hazardous waste disposal.

- And the fact that the well is nearly one mile below the earth's surface, beneath several impermeable rock formations, at a location identified by geologists and supported by a study performed by the University of Michigan.
- And the fact that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and Michigan Department of Natural Resources have approved the project.

There are a lot more facts that our professional staff and geologists would like to share with you. We are manning an information line every business day to hear your questions and give you accurate, direct answers.

EDS is committed to being a good neighbor and corporate citizen in Romulus. Before you make up your mind about our project, please hear the facts. Ask us about anything concerning you. Let's talk.

Sincerely,

The owners, managers and employees of Environmental Disposal Systems

Firm recycles household metals

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

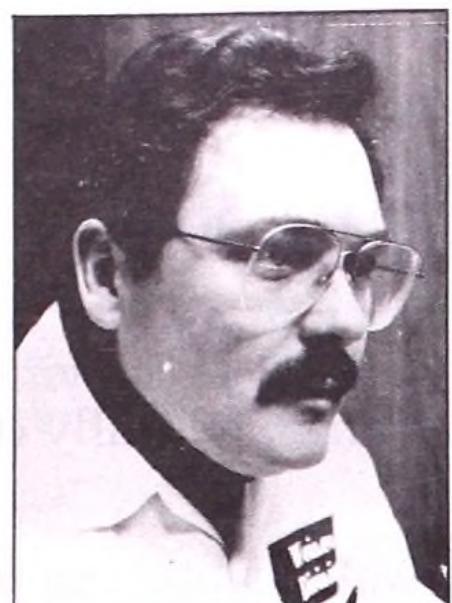

Starting a new trend was never their intention, but Weiser Recycling was among the first businesses to care for the environment.

Specializing in recyclable metals, Weiser buys and sells zinc, lead, aluminum, cast iron steel, sheet metal and more.

"We buy just about anything you can imagine," said Pat Fabor, general manager and part-owner, "but we don't buy junk cars or batteries."

In an average week, Fabor said the company purchases between $20,000 and $30,000 worth of metals to supply both residents and businesses. Weiser supplies materials across the state and worldwide.

"We have an account with Northstar Steel in Monroe and Great Lakes Steel in Inkster," said Fabor, "and some of our metal goes to Detroit to be shipped overseas to Japan, Spain or England."

Located at 35900 Clinton in Wayne, Weiser Recycling is open Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to noon.

According to Fabor, a lot of household items can be recycled (i.e. aluminum chairs).

"There are a lot of people who scavenge through other people's garbage and sell the items to us. I guess one man's junk is another man's treasure," said Fabor.

Aside from metal pieces, Weiser sells usable items like tubing, parts and angle irons to both residents and businesses.

Inkster extends cage win streak to 6

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster High School players put the blurred Suburban Athletic Conference (SAC) title picture into focus last week with impressive victories over natural rival, Robichaud, and perennial title threat, River Rouge.

With last week's development, the Vikings now stand firmly in front of the SAC picture thanks to the two crucial victories.

First-year coach Monte Dennard and the Vikings also have extended their winning streak to six games after defeating Robichaud 73-57 and Rouge, 83-64.

"We're getting balanced scoring and a team effort on defense," said Dennard. "That combination is very tough to beat."

Robichaud stayed close for two quarters, but Greg Prewitt connected for 10 of his 15 points in the third period to break the game open for Inkster. It was 19-16 Inkster after one, then the Vikings widened the margin to 38-32 at intermission.

Prewitt and the Vikings returned to the court after intermission, took control of the boards thanks to Al White and got their running game in fast gear. Before the period ended, they had a 19-point edge (59-40).

"We played a solid first-half," said Robichaud coach Ron Tarrant, whose Bulldogs have won four of their six games. "They came out and dominated the boards in the second half and, instead of stepping up our efforts a notch or two, we backed down."

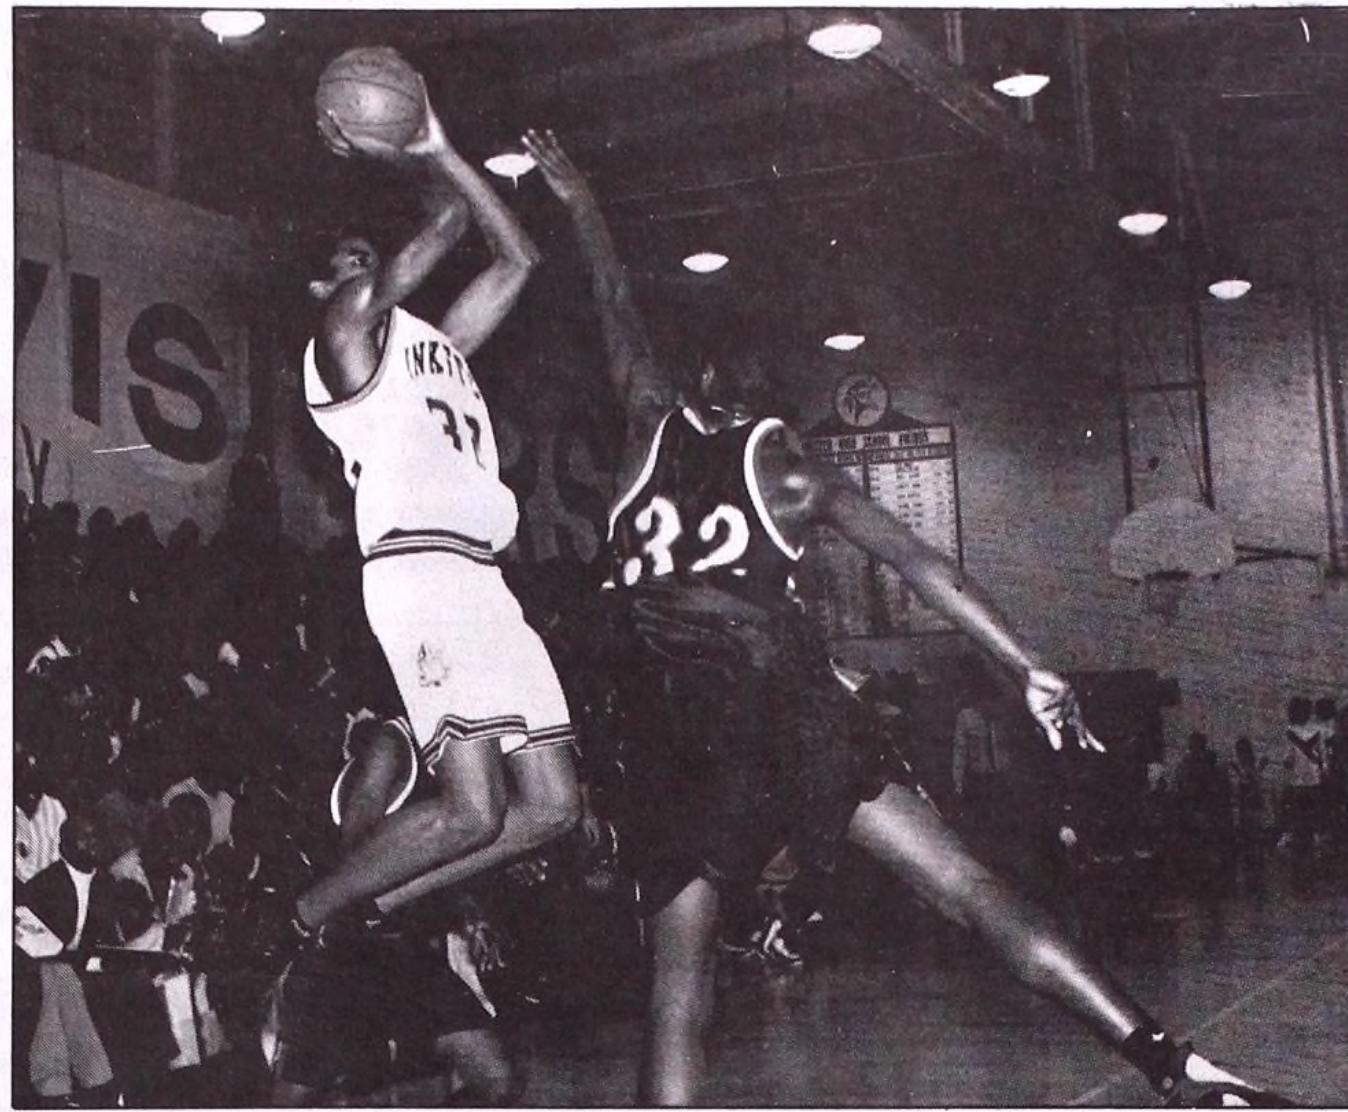

"We're going to have to solve that problem to stay in the chase," Tarrant added.

Four Inkster cagers scored in two figures. Al White led the winners and the field with 25 points and 15 rebounds. Prewitt had 10 assists to go along with his 15 points and James Outlaw contributed 13 points. Imbrahim Myles also had 12 points and nine rebounds for Inkster.

Robichaud's 6-4 guard Antoine Harris finished with 20 points, 15 of those coming in the first half. Matt Alexander counted 10 for the Bulldogs who buried Ecorse 69-45 on the rebound Friday.

Leading 34-17 at the half, the Bulldogs destroyed their SAC rivals with a 35-28 second half. Harris finished with a game-high 17 points and Tyrus Williams added 14.

Tarrant and the Bulldogs return to SAC play Friday night at Highland Park.

- Monte Dennard

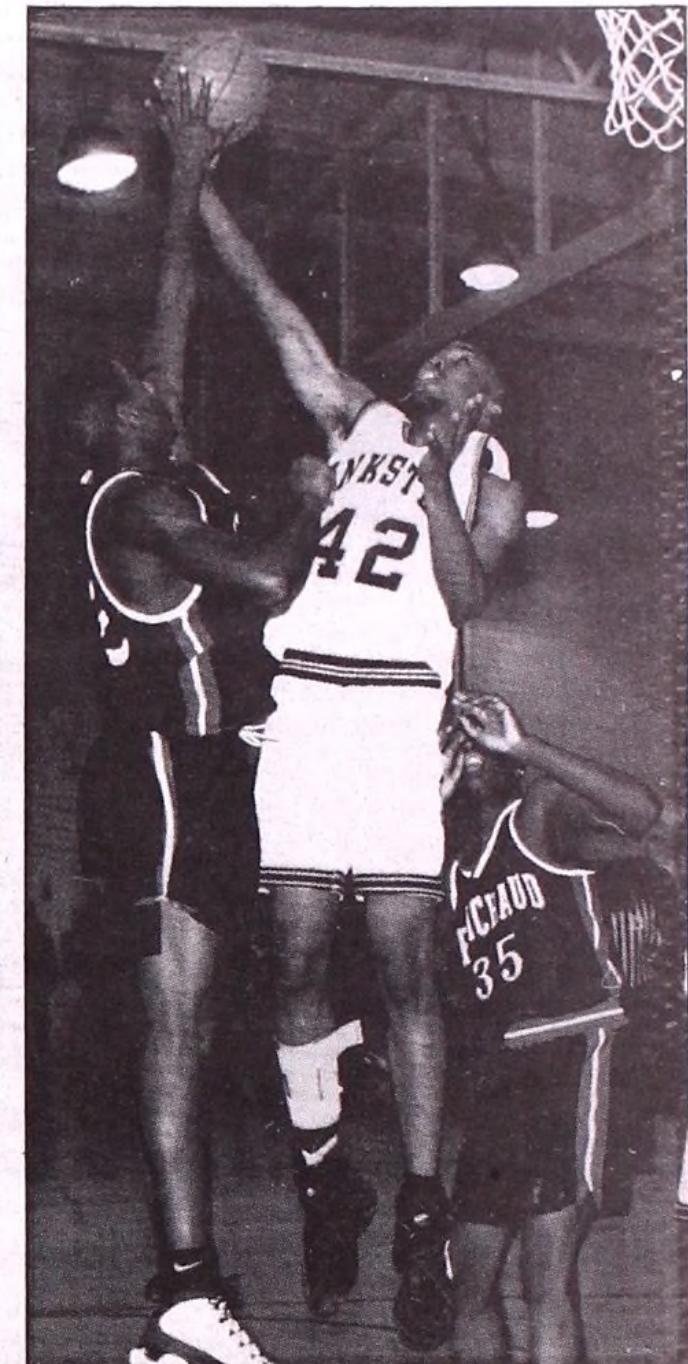

In their victory over Rouge, the Vikings received six points from Maurice Ballard and seven from Prewitt in the second period as undefeated Inkster pulled away from the Panthers in the second period and led 38-25 at intermission after leading only by a basket (15-13) at the end of the initial quarter.

Ballard finished with 18 points and Prewitt had 15. The team high score, however, went to White who scored 19 for the game and also grabbed 14 rebounds, posted 10 blocked shots and also managed to collect seven assists. Myles finished with 13 points and Outlaw had eight.

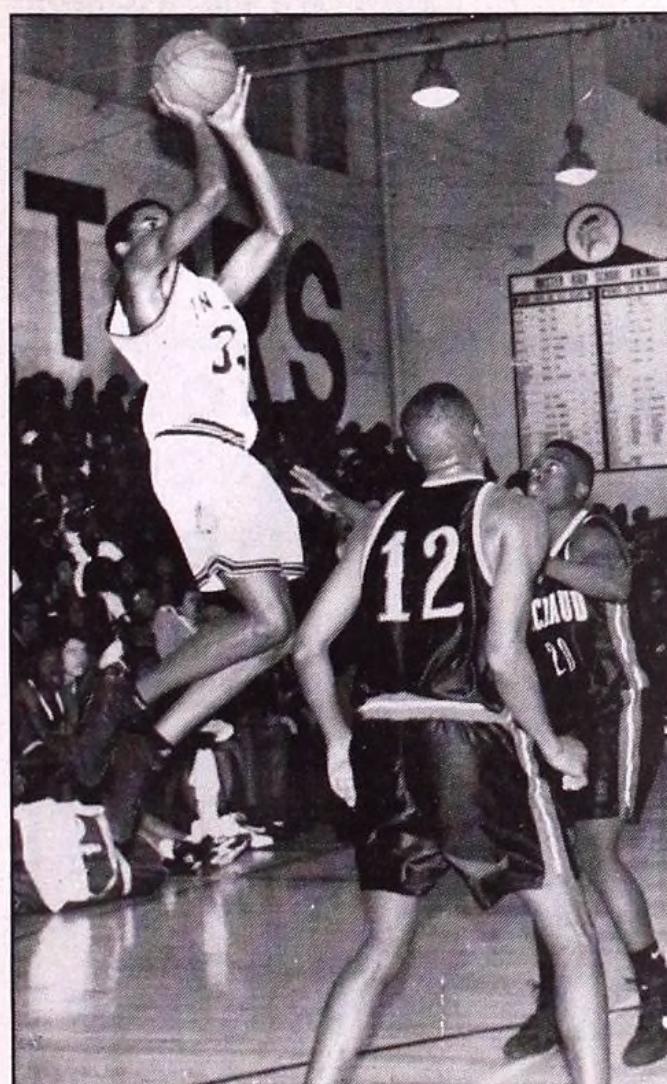

Rouge player George Hardy walked off the hardwood with the individual scoring honors. He had 22 and teammate Bension Washington counted 18.

Friday night, Inkster will travel to Ontario where they will return a visit made last year by the Leanington team.

"We don't know what they have this year," commented Dennard on the pending international basketball game. "But this is good exposure for our kids."

Rockets are 3-0 Glenn plays 'smart', beats Northville, 66-61

Playing "smart" against a highly-touted Northville cage team Friday night paid off in winning dividends for Westland John Glenn High School.

In their inaugural home appearance of the 1993-94 campaign, Glenn jolted the previously undefeated Mustangs, 66-61, to remain perfect in three outings this season.

"I felt we played a smart game against them," said Glenn coach Michael Schuette. "We had some problems in the second period, but the kids came back and got the job done."

The Westlanders are now 3-0 on the year. They were scheduled to play Tuesday night on the home court against South Lyon. On Friday, they return to conference action at Walled Lake Western.

Then, Tuesday they will take on arch-rival, Wayne Memorial. The outcome of that traditional rivalry should tell Schuette a lot about the 1994 Rockets.

Against Northville, Glenn came out ready as 6-11 center Guy Rucker and sharpshooting Tony Goins got the Rockets off to a fast start.

Rucker fired in six of his 14 points and Al Jones sank five points to stake the Rockets to a 20-11 first period lead.

However, the hosts hit an arctic spell and scored only seven points for the entire second period which enabled the Mustangs to close within five points (27-22) at halftime.

Northville came back from the intermission and outscored their hosts 22-18 in the third period with the help of John Farrar and Neil Yaekle, who had 14 and 13 points for the game.

Next 4 games may decide Wayne cage fate

Whether Wayne Memorial High School has the basketball material that champions are made of may be decided in the next four games, according to veteran Wayne coach Chuck Henry.

"We have four big games coming up, and the way our kids respond to the pressure should tell us a lot about this team," said Henry, after his Zebras trampled Taylor Truman Friday night in their conference debut.

Henry's cadre played the first of four big games last night, taking on Dearborn Fordson. Mega Conference coaches believe that the Tractors will have a lot to say about who will wear the first Mega Conference crown. Then, Friday night the Zebras get a look at Woodhaven (5-1), which sports a front line that is 6-9, 6-7, and 6-6. Both games are considered "musts" for Wayne if the Zebras hope to stay with the conference frontrunners.

Next Tuesday, undefeated Westland John Glenn plays its first visit to Wayne. You never have to get either team up for that traditional rivalry which gives the winner bragging rights in the Wayne-Westland schools.

Finally, on Jan. 18, Wayne plays Belleville, a team that some say is in a class of its own this year. Coach Michael Garland's Tigers gave top state-ranked Detroit Cass a battle right to the end before losing a thriller, 58-47, at the Benton Harbor Holiday Classic.

"This is one of the toughest 4-game schedules any of my teams have had to play," Henry said. "Should be interesting to see how we do."

In their first game since Dec. 21, Wayne did not show any signs of weakness against a Truman that definitely was no match for the Zebras. In their inaugural Mega Conference Red Division game, Wayne jumped on their rivals 16-10 in the opening period, built up a 34-21 lead at halftime and, as Henry substituted freely, the Zebras went on to outscore their rivals 17-11 and 19-12 in the final two periods.

4th quarter burst lifts Salem over Canton

Head leads rally in 64-57 win

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Plymouth-Salem High School basketball players put down a determined Plymouth-Canton team Friday night with a fourth-quarter rally that lifted coach Bob Brodie's Rocks to a 64-57 victory over their natural rivals.

Trailing by one, 44-43, after three quarters, the Rocks outscored Canton 21-13 in the final period with senior forward

**"

- Dave VanWagoner

James Head tossing in 13 of his game-high 27 points in the final eight minutes.

The crossover conference victory was the fifth in six starts for Salem, while the Canton overall record dipped to 2-4 on the year.

"This was a typical Salem-Canton game," said Brodie afterwards. "It was exciting right down to the final whistle."

Canton coach Dave VanWagoner said that the inability to stop Head in the fourth quarter, despite some adjustments in the defense, was a key factor the defeat of his team.

"We had the lead, couldn't hang on and Head was unstoppable in the stretch," he said.

Salem jumped out in front 16-10 after the first eight minutes as both teams missed several percentage shots. The Chiefs managed to cut the Salem lead to 29-24 at halftime, then took command with a third-period surge sparked by forward Matt Paupore who drilled eight of his 25 points in that quarter.

Head's 27 points - he also had 13 rebounds - were tops for the evening. Teammate James McDonald chipped in with 14. Joining Paupore in the double-figure scoring column was center Rob Radney who finished with 12 points.

Salem tuned up for the game against Canton with an easy 67-55 victory over down-river power, Riverview. The Rocks took command 48-26 at halftime and were never seriously challenged in the second half as Head scored a game high 16 points and Sanj Seth added 12 points. After stepping out of the league Tuesday night, hosting Brighton, Salem returns to the league races on Friday. The Rocks will be at Livonia Churchill.

Chiefs stun Ypsilanti, 70-37

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Plymouth-Canton High School players managed to overcome a slow start at Ypsilanti and turn back the Braves 70-37 in a non-conference basketball game last Tuesday.

A rash of turnovers and lackluster ball handling led to sloppy play and a low-scoring, 9-8, first period.

Canton erased the deficit by outscoring their problem-plagued hosts, 22-7, in the second frame, taking a 30-16 lead at intermission.

"We managed to overcome a very frustrating start," said Canton coach Dave VanWagoner, who went to the bench briefly to solve his team's problems.

Canton 6-3 senior forward Matt Paupore and Rod Hunter split 26 points between them to lead the Chiefs. Teammate Ted Docks accounted for 12 points.

The Chiefs are home for their next two games. They played out-of-league rivals, Ann Arbor Huron, Tuesday night and will return to the Western Lakes Conference conflicts Friday when North Farmington invades the Chiefs' gym.

Dearborn ends winning streak

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial was introduced to the harsh realities of the Mega Conference, Red Division swim world last week by a team that is noted for its excellence in swimming.

Dearborn, which finished second in the state a year ago, swept 11 out of a possible 12 events from Wayne in the first Mega Conference Red Division meet for both teams.

"They have a fine tradition over there," said Wayne coach Randy Ferguson after the Zebras dropped a 114-44 decision to the Pioneers. "We have a ways to go to catching up to them."

Wayne managed to elude a shutout from first places when the Zebras won the 400-yard freestyle relay event. The foursome of Matt Ferguson, Clint Nemeth, Jason Garlough and Jim Henley posted the winning time of 3:56.6.

Romulus continues skid

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After two inconsistent performances against Adrian and Woodhaven last week, Romulus cagers may feel like they are leaping out of a fire and into the proverbial frying pan.

Coach Guy DelGiudice's Eagles will meet highly regarded Belleville on the home court Friday after facing a strong Temperance Bedford quintet last night.

Adrian jolted Romulus 80-59, while a physical Woodhaven slammed the Eagles 63-55. The skidding Romulus has won two of their seven games this season.

"We have problems on the boards and are not playing consistently," said DelGiudice.

For three quarters Romulus made Adrian sweat. The Eagles trailed by three (15-12) after the first period and were behind 31-25 at halftime. They then outscored their former league rivals 23-22 in the third stanza, but Adrian came back with vengeance in the final eight minutes and hit on treys that paved the way to a 27-11 finale.

Adrian connected on 11 3-pointers for the evening.

Tony Turner, who collected eight of his 11 points in the first half, and Rodney Smith, who had 12 points, along with Antoine Stoudemire (11), scored in double figures for the losers.

Red Wings to sign autographs in Canton

The Red Wings, the hottest team in the National Hockey League, will have two of its stars in Canton Township on Thursday.

Dallas Drake and Sheldon Kennedy will visit the Willow Run Employees Federal Credit Union offices at 48225 Michigan Ave., and will be available for autographs, according to Marv

Woodhaven used its superior board strength to carve out a 63-55 victory over the Eagles. Smith had another excellent outing as he sank 15 points and hauled down seven rebounds.

Romulus managed to outscore Adrian from the field (25-24) but lost at the free throw line.

The Eagles canned eight of 17 charities as compared to 21 of 29 for Adrian.

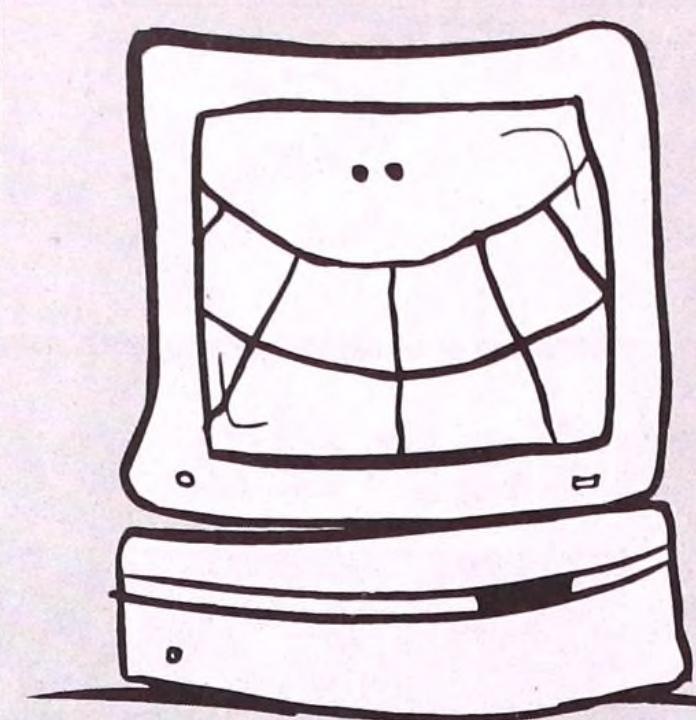

Woodhaven used its superior board strength to carve out a 63-55 victory over the Eagles. Smith had another excellent outing as he sank 15 points and hauled down seven rebounds. Keith Parks came off the Eagles' bench and chipped in 10 points - all in the second half.

Jason Havlik, a 6-7 power forward, scored 19 for Woodhaven and teammate 6-8 Vince Caraselli added 14 points.

Wenzel.

Wenzel, a former Belleville High football star, said that fans can see the hockey stars beginning at 5 p.m. They will be at the credit union facility until 6 p.m. according to Wenzel.

Adopt-A-Pet

It is that time of year—winter, when thoughts turn to new beginnings and new adventures. And what better time to think about an addition to the family. Last week, more than 30 families took advantage of the services of the Michigan Humane Society and adopted new pets from the Westland Shelter.

The process is simple. Those seeking that perfect pet simply visit the shelter and select one of the eager animals awaiting adoption. Then, an adoption counselor will help the prospective owner complete a questionnaire regarding the care of the animal and the home into which it may go.

After that, the adoption documents are signed and the wiggly bundle of fur and affection is ready to travel home with a new family.

Michigan Humane Society officials are careful to point out that inoculations and sterilization of all animals must be guaranteed by the new owner and there is a moderate adoption fee and a sterilization deposit requested for puppies and kittens who may not yet have all their inoculations or be neutered.

At present, more than 30 animals await new homes and winter will bring in many new litters of puppies and kittens needing homes. And, as usual, there are several adult animals who have been abandoned, lost or given up by their owners.

The shelter, located at 37255 Marquette Road in Westland, serves the entire area and is open for adoptions from 10 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Further information is available at 721-7300.

Local artist exhibits need for peace at gallery

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

It is with us every day. It has become a part of life in America. We hear about it on the radio, see it on television and read about it in the newspapers.

Violence is now a part of our culture and it is affecting children and adults of all ages. But Canton Township resident Connie Lucas thinks that has to change—and she's attempting to depict that need for change with her art.

Lucas has captured the various aspects of violence in society in an exhibit of her paintings on display at the Swords Into Plowshares Peace Center and Gallery, 33 East Adams in Detroit.

She is being featured with Arnold McBride from St. Catharines, Ontario in the exhibit "Hands Across The Border."

Lucas said this is her first two-person gallery exhibition. Both artists have exhibited in juried shows at the Swords Gallery winning awards for their entries.

The Canton resident's 22 masterpieces entitled "Symbols of Violence and Peace" challenge viewers to identify with personal symbols, including tools of war and the dove of peace. Lucas' goal is for onlookers to see in her work the insanity of war, but that "peace is attainable."

Lucas teaches art in the adult-education program in the Plymouth/Canton school system and the Visual Arts Association in Livonia.

"The project itself was started around 1986," Lucas said. "It's an ongoing interest I have in this particular series."

When I went to school it was safe and fun to go to school. Today, children aren't safe anywhere.
- Connie Lucas

Lucas said she began her art project with the focus on violence after seeing so much of it on television.

"It's my concern with what I see and what I read in the paper about violence in the society, violence against children and war," Lucas said. "I think in the beginning of the year (1993), there were 22 different confrontations going on around the world. And, our hope is for peace."

"It seems like attaining peace is always eluding our grasp, and we just can't get it. But, we hope we can get better at it."

Lucas said she often uses children's toys as symbols of war in her art work.

"I use very simple shapes of guns, crosses, tanks and jeeps," Lucas said. "I then use peace symbols like doves and eagles. With this series I have two three-dimensional pieces and the rest are between acrylic and mixed water colors."

This talented artist doesn't just work on one project at a time. She said she sometimes concentrates on numerous artworks at the same time.

Canton resident Connie Lucas said her favorite masterpiece is 'We The People' which was the last project she worked on. ANP photo by DiVizio/chief photographer

"I work on several especially with the water color process because you have to wait for layers to dry, so then it allows you to work on other projects at the same time," Lucas said.

Lucas said she began nurturing her talent for art in grade school.

"In grade school and in high school I loved to draw," Lucas said. "The first award I ever won as a student was the Michigan Art Scholastics."

The drive to succeed as an artist, however, didn't appear until Lucas said she was in her 30s.

"What happened is, when I hit around 30, I was sort of going through a life crisis," Lucas said. "I thought of it as a turning point in my life where I was doing all these things for my children and family, and I wasn't doing anything for myself."

"So, I started taking night school classes in drawing at the local high school. Now, I'm teaching those very same classes I started in."

Lucas went back to college when she turned 40 to attain her bachelor's degree. She finished her master's degree in 1991 at Eastern Michigan University in painting.

As Lucas looks back when she was a child growing up in the Detroit area, she said she sees the level of violence increasing at alarming rates.

"The thing is it's something that happens to people no matter where you live," Lucas said. "I walk on a regular basis in Canton, and right on Beck Road a couple years back a girl got grabbed. A couple of women a while back got grabbed on the bike path in Canton."

"Violence happens everywhere, and what it has done is made people be on their guard all the time now."

Lucas said it was the murder of her husband's brother-in-law in downtown Detroit which affected the way she thought about many things including the intensity of violence in the world.

"When I went to school it was safe and fun to go to school," Lucas said. "Today, children aren't safe anywhere."

Lucas' juried shows include Michigan Watercolor Society (1992, three awards), Ann Arbor Women Painters Winter Exhibition (1992, second place) and Butler Museum Institute of American Arts, Youngstown, Ohio.

The gallery is open for viewers from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Hands will be presented through Feb. 26. For group tickets call 965-5422.

Capricorn faces challenges, makes friends this month

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Major changes in your career are likely at this time. You will be dealing with the public to a larger extent. The last half of the month will have you questioning who your friends really are. Be careful what you say to people. Lucky numbers are two, four and five.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Emphasis is on long-distance communications, travel. You will be speaking to many people from the past. This is a good time for furthering your education. A promotion could come to you after the 20th. Lucky numbers are one, four and six.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Chances are good that you'll be in touch with your insurance agent by the 18th. Be cautious with your investments at this time. Your work environment will serve as a learning experience for greater advancement. Lucky numbers are two, three, eight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Cancerians are beginning a new cycle of breaking away from the past. Go with the flow. There will be legal papers to be signed by month end. Conflicts with your mate are more prominent now. Lucky numbers are zero, one and six.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Work, work, work. Fortunately, you are going through a great health cycle. You will be in great demand this month both through work and with family. Partnerships could be touchy. Listen before you speak. Lucky numbers are three, five and seven.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Romance is fulfilling. This should be a better financial month. Fortunately, you didn't overspend last year. Children are more demanding at this time. Your work starts to pick up after the 15th. Lucky numbers are two, two and four.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Major changes in your home situation, particularly with remodeling or relocating. More and better family communication is possible now. After the 19th, you'll go through a very good gambling cycle. Play a number. Lucky numbers are one, two and four.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) This is a better cycle for communications. You may be looking for a different vehicle. You will be racking up the miles on your odometer. Finances are on the upswing. Be prepared for a year that you have been waiting for. Lucky numbers are two, six and eight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You're still in the spending mode. You'll have to watch your finances by the end of the month. Re-group your thoughts. What do you really want this year? Look for your partner to be more demanding. Lucky numbers are three, three and four.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You probably feel like you're being pulled in five different directions right now. You're in great demand by everyone. Fortunately, you'll have the energy to meet all of the challenges ahead of you. New friends are on the horizon. Lucky numbers are five, six and seven.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Keep your face on more of an even keel until the 21st. Job pressures may leave you stressed out but could be worth the trouble. A long distance or clandestine romance is possible at this time. Lucky numbers are one, five and nine.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Legal issues are on the upswing. Friends come to your rescue out of nowhere. Romance is highlighted. Out with the old and in with the new. Balance your time and energy with fun. Work with routine and details. Lucky numbers are five, six and seven.

"I think the governor has effectively put a stranglehold on any growth at this time."

Dr. John Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, referring to the effects felt by the school district as a result of recent legislative decisions.

Of Note

Pizzeria is robbed

A "Mutt and Jeff" pair of bandits robbed Mr. Bill's Pizza of Romulus Wednesday night, after the taller of the two stuck a silver revolver in the young attendant's face and asked "Do you know what this is?"

The 19-year-old Romulus attendant said the pair walked into the pizza shop at 30755 Eureka Road about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and discussed the various sales items listed on the menu.

Then suddenly the taller of the two black bandits, reportedly about 6-feet, 7-inches tall, pulled the gun and brandished it in the attendant's face. The attendant said he acknowledged that it was a gun and the bandit then ordered him to surrender all the money in the register.

The smaller of the two men, described as about 5-feet, 5-inches tall, then reached over and took the money offered by the attendant.

The taller man was wearing a tan coat and blue and silver cap, police said, and the shorter was clad in a black and gray flannel shirt jacket. Both successfully fled from the pizza shop on foot.

Adult meeting set

An adults-only meeting to help acquaint parents with "How to Talk with Children about the Facts of Life" is slated for 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Romulus Senior High School.

The workshop for parents of children ages 5-11 will include information from a professional health educator on the male and female reproductive systems.

Free literature and a question and answer period also will be offered.

Adults attending the seminar are urged to enter through the front door on the Wayne Road side of the school.

Composite released

A composite drawing of a man suspected in the assault of a Belleville office worker has been released in an effort to locate the subject.

Belleville police are investigating the alleged assault of the young woman who was working alone in a Main Street office at the time of the incident.

The woman told police that the man came into the office and asked for a job. As she handed him an application, she said the man grabbed her. She fled and locked herself in the bathroom, and later emerged to call the police.

The man was said to be 6 feet tall and 180 pounds. He has an average build and light, short, curly hair. The woman said his cheeks were pock-marked and he had "a poor shave."

Although the police reported that the suspect was about 30 years of age, the woman later said he was between 35 and 40.

Teen faces charges in abuse of baby

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A 17-year-old Churchill High School student was bound over to Detroit Recorder's Court for trial on first-degree felony child abuse charges after allegedly shaking a 1-year-old infant for approximately five minutes causing paralysis on the right side of the child's body, according to Westland police Sgt. Laura Moore.

Brian Spencer Sant, who is being tried as an adult, was released on a $7,500 personal conditional bond, with the stipulation he not baby sit or have any child under the age of 18 in his sole custody. If convicted of the charge, Sant could face a maximum of 15 years in prison.

Moore referred to this act as the shaken baby syndrome and said the consequences could have been much worse.

"I met Brian through the ROTC program my daughter was involved with at high school. He started out as a mother's helper, then became my babysitter."

"Normally children die from this," Moore said. The victim was one of seven children Sant was babysitting on Dec. 15 for a couple with five foster children under the age of 6 and two 7-year-old children. Sant had been taking care of the children for approximately a year and a half without any prior problems, according to the mother.

"I met Brian through the ROTC program my daughter was involved with at high school. He started out as a mother's helper, then became my babysitter," the woman testified.

The mother said Sant cared for the children as often as three times per week and would administer medicine to the children, including the victim, who was diagnosed with epilepsy, asthma and was born drug addicted.

The woman left Sant with the children twice on the afternoon of Dec. 15. The second time she left, around 3:30 p.m., the baby, who had a cold, was sleeping in the family room.

"He had a runny nose, but he was active and playful," the woman said of her child's behavior earlier that day.

When the woman returned home around 5:30

Do you recall?

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Do you remember "Dish Night" at the movies?

If so, your memory must include the 1930s and 1940s, the days of movie spectaculars when fans watched double features, cartoons, previews of coming attractions, newsreels and serials - all for the same low admission price of 10 to 25 cents. In addition, free dishes were given as prizes to lure patrons to the movies.

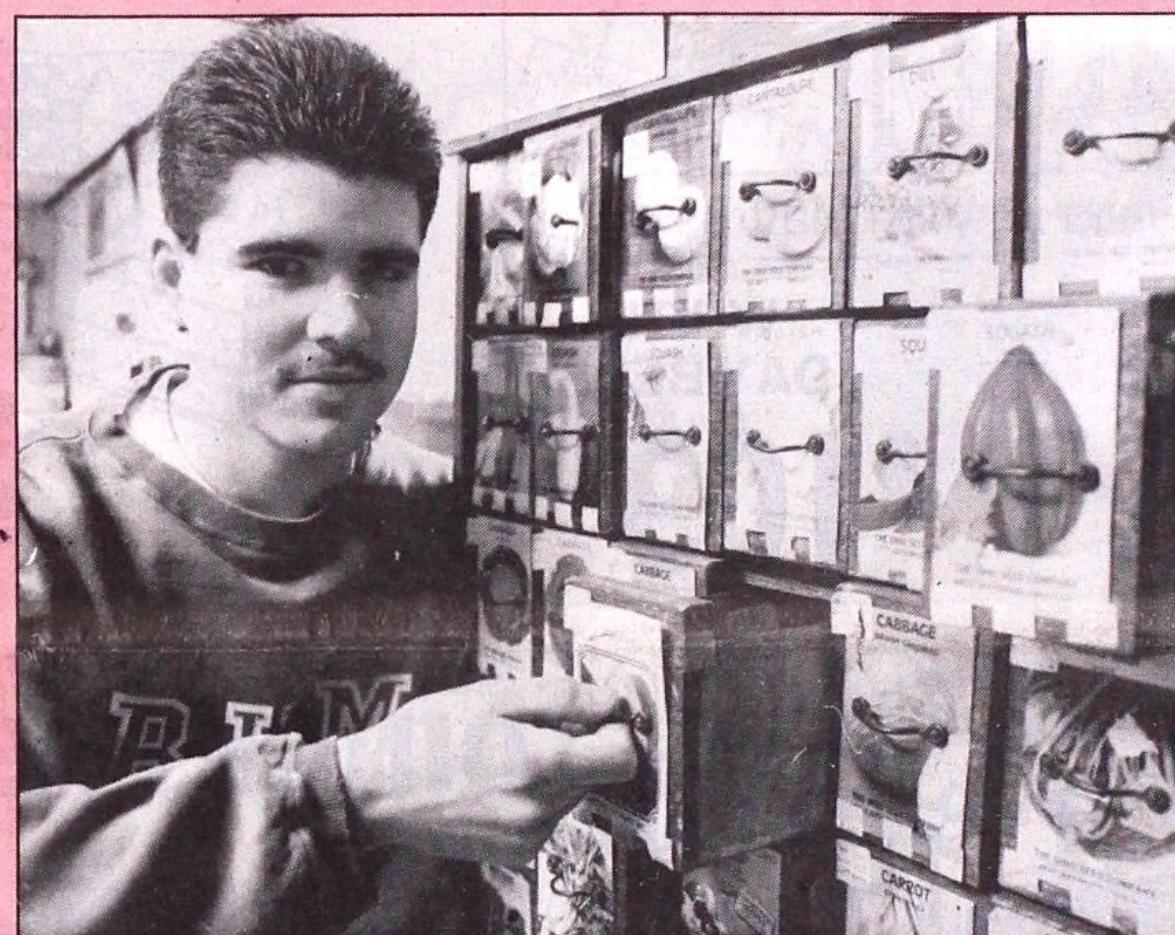

Many older residents of western Wayne County recall the days when their parents brought them to the week-night movie, designed as Dish Night, so that they could help collect a set of free dishes for the family.

In Decades of past decades, shopping at the downtown Detroit J.L. Hudson store was a tradition.

Young girls put on their best dresses to accompany their mothers to visit the gigantic store. "Dressing up" for a shopping trip in downtown Detroit often meant wearing hats and white gloves. A special treat was lunch in the tea room after a visit with Santa Claus. The Woodward Avenue store was known to "have everything" in stock. If the Hudson store didn't have it, the item just wasn't available, customers would say.

Many common, everyday events have been phased out of our daily lives like the double features, Dish Nights at the movies and pre-Christmas visits to the downtown Hudson store.

If you have a personal experience about the past to relate, write to Nostalgia, Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184.

Feed, seed sold Shop measures up to past

Tucked behind small factories, offices and businesses just a block from busy, bustling Michigan Avenue, Goodmen's Feed Store continues to dispense bulk seeds, straw and animal food just as its operators have done for the past several decades.

The old-fashioned feed store, equipped with boxes and drawers of bulk vegetable seeds, is located in the heart of Wayne on the corner of Second and Bush streets.

"I don't know how long the feed store has been here, but the Goodmen name is an old, well-known name in Wayne," said Steve Taylor, son of the present owners. "My parents have owned the store for the past 20 years."

Although the rear of the store features a variety of new products, the front counter provides a look into the past with its shelves of bulk seeds in pull-out drawers.

Wildflower seeds as well as popular vegetable and flower seeds are available for planting, and, in the spring, Goodmen's also stocks starter plants.

Boy, 3, admits shooting brother

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The fatal shot, which killed a 6-year-old boy two days after Christmas, was fired by the youngster's, 3-year-old half-brother.

On Dec. 27, James Allen Hunt, 6, was accidentally shot in the head by a shotgun in the Romulus apartment of his mother's boyfriend, Scott Martin. At the time of the incident, it was reported that the youngster had fired the fatal shot himself while handling the loaded gun in Martin's apartment.

Romulus police were baffled for several days as they attempted to determine how James Allen Hunt could have pulled the trigger on a shotgun which was almost as tall as he was. Later, the victim's 3-year-old half-brother told a family member that he was the one who accidentally shot his older brother.

Martin, 28, faces a preliminary hearing Wednesday on an involuntary manslaughter charge involving the shooting death of the boy, who is the son of his girl friend, Cheryl Benitez, 26.

Police reported on Dec. 27 that Martin had obtained a 12-gauge shotgun and brought it into his apartment for the protection of his girlfriend, who had earlier reported receiving a threatening call.

Martin is slated to appear in the 34th District Court of Romulus at 9 a.m. Wednesday on the involuntary murder charge. He currently is free on $10,000 personal bond.

Area to remember slain civil rights hero

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If the assassin's bullet had missed its target standing on the second floor of a Memphis motel, what would Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. have to say today as the nation prepares to commemorate his 65th birthday?

Would Dr. King be pleased with the work and progress of the Civil Rights movement, a movement he fought and died for?

Would he say that his dream, a dream of racial equality and justice, has truly become a reality?

And would he see a nation of people oblivious to racial discrimination, words only to be found in history books?

Nearly three decades after an assassin silenced the strongest voice of this century that called out and prayed for justice, Dr. King's dream remains just that a dream.

In his 39 years, Dr. King managed to accomplish more than all of the would-be civil rights advocates have in the past three decades since his death.

If he had lived, few would doubt he would regroup his forces, call them back to the trenches and the front lines of the civil rights movement, and urge them to renew the fight for racial equality.

The recipient of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize for his work for racial justice would chastise those who have been sidetracked and distracted from the issue that as long as one man's rights are violated, then no one is safe.

In his 39 years, Dr. King managed to accomplish more than all of the would-be civil rights advocates have in the past three decades since his death. Lest we forget, Dr. King organized the boycott of the Montgomery, Alabama transit company in 1955 that precipitated the desegregation of transit system in that state and inevitably in the south.

Under his leadership and guidance, Dr. King led the march on Washington, rallying some quarter of a million people to the doorsteps of the Lincoln Memorial.

That march forced open the doors to the 1965 Civil Rights Act and Voting Rights Act.

And who will ever forget Dr. King's vision of the future, his Dream, of a nation that has crossed a bridge into a promised land where one looks upon one's skin and differences as the work of God.

Computers are key to future

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Three members of the Class of 2000 at Wick School in Romulus know that the use of computers will grow in their lives as the new century approaches, but urgently hope that violence will shrink during the same time period.

The 11-year-old students, who are greatly impressed with the advanced computer programs that are available to them in the sixth grades, all expect to be entering college in the year 2000. Two already feel they have decided on their life vocations, while the third is keeping her options open.

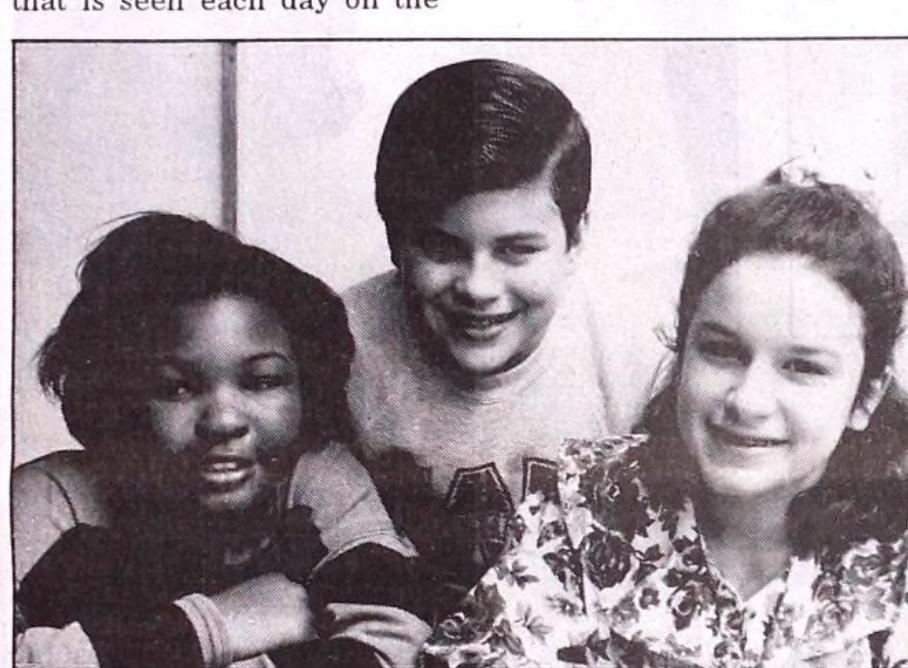

Sharitta Warren, daughter of Sheryl Warren and Greg Adams, has high hopes of becoming a cosmetologist "because I love long hair and nails."

Adams would like to see America entering the next century "with no drugs, no alcohol and no fighting."

Meanwhile Stephen Harper, son of Stephen and Melissa Harper, plans to be an archaeologist after completing college and one day hopes to find a previously undiscovered Pharaoh's tomb.

Harper said his greatest hopes are for a major "reduction in all that crime we see today."

Harper currently works on the daily school news program that is seen each day on the school's video monitor, but longs for the day when he will search through Egypt for objects he has only seen in his ancient history studies.

Jackie Evans, daughter of Joyce and Rich Evans, is determined she wants to go to college in the year 2000, but has yet to nail down any precise career plan yet.

Like her classmates, Evans longs for more "freedom and peace" in the world, but realizes "it begins best in our own neighborhoods."

Peace is students' 2000 goal

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

Their hope for the year 2000 is that violence will end and peace will become a reality.

The class of 2000, sixth grade students at Monroe Elementary School in Wayne, consists of a very diligent group of youngsters who are already working on their future career goals even before they reach college age.

For Kristina McCahill, Stephanie Rickel, Jonathon Judd and Justin Tucker, they have already decided exactly what they want to be when they grow up.

"I want to be a marine biologist or zoologist," McCahill said. "I like animals a lot."

"I would like to be an artist and help clean up the Rouge River," Rickel said.

"I want to either be an actor or a football player," Tucker said. "I think an actor first because I like acting."

"I would like to be a pro-hockey player," Judd said.

Gangs are a big problem right now," Judd said. "You can't really stop it. You can only tell people not to join them."

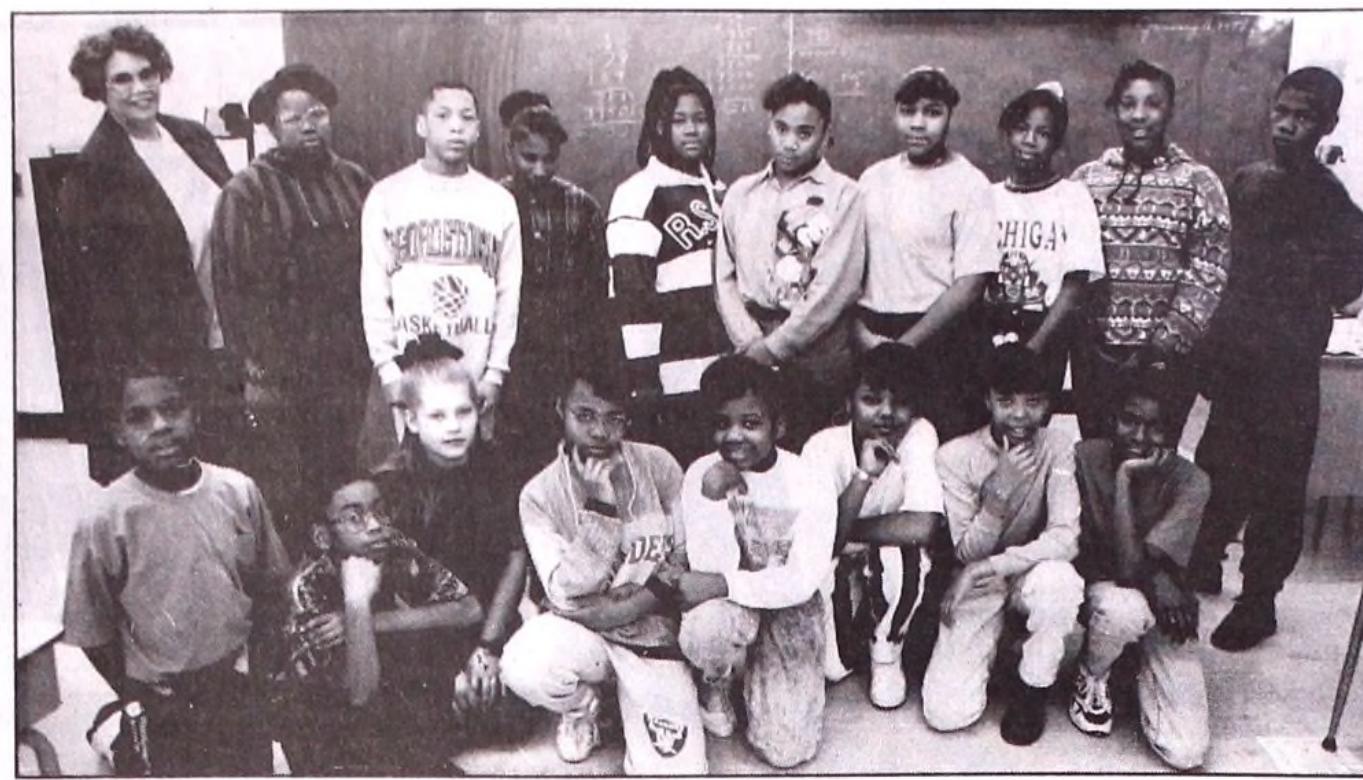

Looking into the future, the students said they each have a goal to make the world a better place to live in by the year 2000.

"I think a way to curb violence is to get more cops," Tucker said.

"We need more police officers in the schools, especially in the junior high and high schools," Judd said.

Rickel was in favor of having metal detectors set up in each school throughout the district in order to prevent students from carrying weapons.

All of the students said they enjoy school, especially since they entered this class.

Using words as their time machine to travel to the year 2000, educator Wendy Campbell and sixth-graders at Meek Elementary School in the Inkster School District say agree that parents and schools must increase their efforts and work together to make the trip along the road of education a successful one for the children of today. ### 'No surprises,' kids say

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Although the year 2000 has been portrayed in many films and books as one of computerization and space technology, some students who will graduate from high school that year don't expect life to be much different than it is today.

That's the opinion shared by 11-year-old Jeremy Husby and Katie Butzky of St. John's Lutheran Elementary School in Westland. Husby and Butzky are sixth-grade students and their favorite subject is spelling, although Butzky admits she also enjoys art.

Butzky doesn't have any futuristic career plans, she would like to be a teacher. Husby doesn't know what he wants to do yet, but both believe computers will play an even stronger role in society by the time they graduate.

"I think many students will have computers in classrooms," Butzky said.

Sixth-graders look forward to 2000

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although they admit that they have not given it much thought, sixth-grade students at Meek Elementary School in the Inkster School District look upon the Year 2000 and high school graduation with apprehension.

They do see advances in medicine, a cure for AIDS, computer technology continuing to dominate the lives of individuals and industry, and, although they believe Tyrone Wheatley should have taken the money and run, they also believe that a college education is "a must" for all of them.

Wheatley, a super athlete and All-American running back who grew up in the streets of Inkster and graduated from Robichaud High School (Westwood School District) refused to make himself available for the NFL (National Football League) draft and decided to stay at the University of Michigan for his senior year.

Lorenzo McCain, a sixth grader, says that he sees himself graduating from high school and going on to play basketball at Michigan in the year 2000. The 12-year-old added that parents can help their children realize their dreams by "telling them to do good in school and to get the best grades they can."

And 12-year-old Lazara

"Parents can help their children by taking time and talking to their kids about the right things in life."

Lazara Duncans

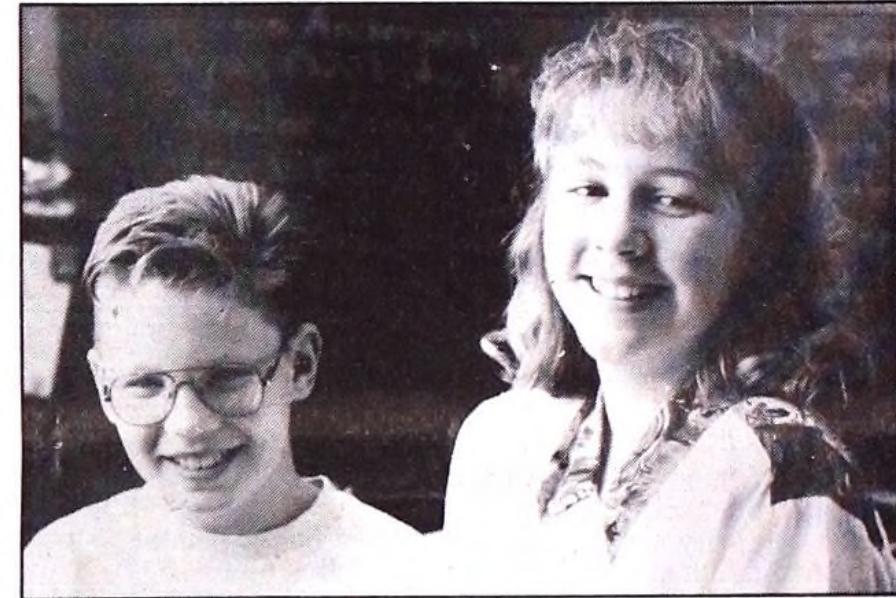

Duncans says that one of her goals after high school is to work to "go to college and study to be a medical doctor. I am going to continue to speak to kids about AIDS."

Duncans stressed that parents can help their children by "taking time and talking to their kids about the right things in life."

Mathematics. Calculus. Algebra. These subjects won't change this year or in the year 2000, claims Julian Aikens, who plans to attend Yale or Harvard or Florida State University upon graduation from high school.

Julian says that be it the year 1994 or the year 2000, parents are the key to a child's success or failure.

"Check on your children," he urged. "Help children any way they can to prepare their school work. Set good study hours and help them get organized."

'Anything possible,' class claims

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

In the world of virtual reality and continually improving technology, the idea of solar powered cars, a cure for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), and voice-activated pencils existing in the year 2000 does not seem inconceivable.

According to students in Margo Panko's Central Middle School sixth-grade class, who will graduate from high school in the year 2000, anything is possible with computer advancement.

"I think we will find a cure for AIDS by the year 2000," said Jennifer Sheridan of Canton Township. "People will become more knowledgeable, make more medicine and mix it all up."

"I think there will be seat belts on buses," said Trish Farrugia, an 11-year-old Canton Township resident.

Other ideas included less crime, robots to help with housework, less pollution, machines to do homework and flying cars (as seen in the cartoon The Jetsons).

Bearing letter jackets with double zeroes on the sleeve, students are both nervous and excited to be the first graduating class of the new century.

"It's weird because I don't know what it is going to be like," said Charles Clement, of Canton Township, "but I'm excited about it. I think I might join the army when I graduate and see what it's like."

Farrugia hopes to become a professional roller skater in the new century.

Students anticipate turn-of-century

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Bethany Zehel is excited about being in the Class of 2000, but her classmate Beth Conroy doesn't look forward to wearing a school hat or jacket with "00" on it.

"I talked to my mother about it, and I think it'll look funny to have an '00,' instead of a '94' or '95 on something," Beth Conroy said.

"It's exciting to be the first class to graduate in the new century," said Jennifer Wall.

The three girls, who are sixth-graders at St. Anthony's Academy in Belleville, and their classmates have been surveyed by the Belleville Enterprise each year since they started kindergarten in 1987.

The Class of 2000, was the first group to use the coordinated K-through-8 curriculum at the school, and were also the first kindergarten class to use computers, according to Sr. Denise Seymour, principal.

"Computers will be more advanced in 2000, and there will be more knowledge and skills," noted Jeremy Sears.

Emily Jablonski predicted that all school work will be done with computers instead of text books in the next century.

St. Anthony's Academy students Matthew Sampson (back row, left), Beth Conroy, Emily Jablonski and Mike Blum, and Heather Jesse (front row), Stephanie Pryce, Amanda Scroil and Eric Meyer relay their predictions. ANP photo by Ken Garner

"I think there will be cooler clothes, and no uniforms in schools," said Jennifer Sutherland, who seemed disappointed to learn that the trend is toward increasing the use of uniforms in schools.

"Scientists might find a new planet by 2000," said Mike Blum.

Heather Jesse looks forward to video phones being widely used in the next century, and Amanda Scroil predicted advances in clothing and cars.

Eric Meyer predicted that space crafts will become more sophisticated and will travel farther, while Adam Drescher foresees the use of hovercraft-type cars.

2 face charges in shooting

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A Jan. 19 court examination has been scheduled for two local men charged with assault with intent to murder and felony firearm before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold.

Christopher A. Boyd, 18, of Westland, and Jason Scott Krasson, 18, of Garden City, allegedly were involved in a drive-by shooting incident which occurred at 4:20 a.m. Dec. 6 at the old Nankin apartments on Wayne, 35550 west Michigan Ave.

Several gun shots were fired through the window of apartment 17, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews. Five residents were home at the time of the incident, however, no one was injured.

"It appears the window was shot out intentionally," Drews said. "Evidence has been collected, and we are conducting a thorough investigation."

Drews said the incident involves problems between one group of individuals living in the apartment and another group living outside the area.

Boyd and Krasson were arraigned before Archbold last week, and a $50,000 cash bond was set for each. The defendants are in the Wayne County jail awaiting the examination.

The two men also have charges of armed robbery pending from Westland, according to Drews.

If Boyd and Krasson are found guilty of the offenses, they could receive up to life in prison for the assault with intent to murder charge and two years for felony firearm.

The Wayne Police Department is continuing an investigation. Drews said he would appreciate anyone with information regarding the incident contacting the Wayne Police Department at 721-1414.

HERO

On Saturday, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. would have been 65 years old.

And, unfortunately, as we continue to celebrate the martyr's life and work, let us renew the fight for racial justice and equality.

Scores of churches and groups will conduct memorial services honoring the life and works of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Among the noteworthy programs are:

- Congressman William D. Ford (D-Ypsilanti), chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor, will give the keynote address to mark Dr. King's birthday at 4 p.m. Monday at the University of Michigan School of Engineering in the Crisler Center, located at the university north campus, 2121 Bonisteel.

Ford's speech will focus on King's influence on landmark education legislation in the 1960s and recent measures Ford has sponsored to fulfill through educational opportunity Dr. King's dream of social justice.

- Judson Hixson will present Living the Dream from 1:40 to 3:10 p.m. Jan. 17 in the Beaverville High School auditorium.

ABUSE

p.m., the child was asleep in the family room play pen snoring, she said. At 6:45 p.m., one of the woman's 7-year-olds called her mother into the room because the baby was vomiting.

"He was laying in vomit having a seizure," the woman said.

The woman testified that she picked the child up and discovered his body was somewhat limp, one of his eyes was rolled upward, his hand was jerking and he was having trouble breathing.

"He was very limp. He appeared to be lethargic," the woman said.

Believing the child had a stroke, the woman called 911 and her foster child was transported to Garden City Hospital and then referred to Children's Hospital in Detroit where he stayed until Jan. 11.

Dr. Marsha Newcombe, a pediatric resident at Children's Hospital, said when the infant arrived at the hospital he underwent surgery for removal of a collection of blood between the brain and skull and kept on a mechanical ventilator during his recovery.

"The injury was life threatening. It could cause compression of the brain leading to respiratory arrest," Newcombe said.

The baby has been released to the foster parents, but doctors are unsure if the child will regain function on the right side of his body.

Westland police Sgt. Leonard West said he took an oral statement from Sant on Dec. 23 after he failed a polygraph test.

"He said he was holding the baby's hands rocking him back and forth. He said the baby's head was going fully back and forth," West said.

West testified that Sant said, "I was getting a little frustrated. I guess I got carried away."

FEED

seeds anywhere. Most of them are pre-packaged in a standard quantity," said Taylor, who noted that many long-time customers are enticed back to the store spring after spring to buy their vegetable and flower seeds in exactly the quantities they want.

"We sell feed all year around for all kinds of animals - house pets and horses, too," he said. "We also sell straw and hay. People buy bales of straw in the winter to put in their dog houses."

Bird fanciers also patronize Goodmen's for its stock of wild bird feed, Taylor said.

A sign in the store notes that "chicks, ducklings, turkey poult and goslings" are available on order.

If a feed store - not a supermarket-style pet supply shop - can still exist in the heart of the city, is it possible that there are still soda fountains, home deliveries of dairy products, kids playing jacks and hopscotch and doctors who make house calls?

FROZEN IMAGES

Resident turns blocks of ice into artistic masterpieces

The masterpieces may be fleeting—but the satisfaction remains.

Not many artists would brave the freezing temperatures and expose themselves to the elements for the joy of creating a work which will only last until the mercury rises above the freezing mark. But then, Westland resident Chris Sokolowski has never thought of his artwork as anything but unusual.

Sokolowski is one of the brave, and one of the few, ice carvers who chop, chisel and melt huge blocks of ice into sculptures worthy of a museum—a very cold museum.

There are a few individuals, however, who have the raw talent for this unique hobby, eyes that can see beyond a solid block of ice to the flying eagle, the fountain, the floral vase or the other wonders which only wait to be released by the sculptor's clever hand.

Sokolowski, owner of one of the largest ice sculpting businesses in the state, has this gift. He was one of the many competitors at the 1994 Plymouth International Ice Spectacular this week.

He said he has always had an interest in the art of ice chiseling, but did not take it seriously until he took a few classes from a master chef at Schoolcraft College approximately three years ago in the culinary arts program.

"I started out actually by helping one of the instructors," Sokolowski said. "I am a graduate of the culinary arts program. I am probably one of the only graduates who has their own ice sculpting business, Sokol's Sculptures."

With his business, Sokol creates a variety of centerpieces including birds, vases and portraits for weddings, birthdays and special engagements such as the recent North American International Auto Show at Cobo Hall.

His ice sculpting talents can also be observed at McPherson Hospital where he is a chef, food service director.

"I've been in the ice business three years, and it has been going very well," Sokolowski said. "I've sold more ice than anyone in the Detroit area last year so I think that's pretty good."

Sokolowski's first masterpiece was an eagle. He said sculpting birds has become somewhat of a trademark for him.

"My last name means falcon in Polish," Sokolowski said. "After I accomplished the eagle, I made it into a signature piece. Then, I made it part of my logo for my business."

Ice sculpting isn't an easy craft, according to Sokolowski. It takes a lot of skill.

"It's a learned talent," Sokolowski said. "I believe I have natural ability, but I didn't think I was an artist when I started. Now, I look at myself as a sculptor so it's really a developed art."

"Drawing helps. If you can draw well, you can normally have the same flow of your hand as you do with the chisel."

Sokolowski said when he begins turning a block of ice into piece of art, he draws the actual design whatever he is working with onto the ice first before chiseling.

"I draw it onto the block with a marker," Sokolowski said. "In competition, you generally get about three hours to carve, but in real life, for weddings, carvings take about 1 1/2 hours to two hours. So in competition, you really want to take a lot of detail in designs."

The International Auto Show was Sokolowski's most recent venture. He assisted ice carving experts Dan Hugelier and Ted Wakar with constructing a 10-block sculpture in front of the doors of Cobo.

"We did the show logo and a prototype of a concept car that won a contest by a student," Sokolowski said. "The two gentlemen that helped me are probably the best in the country."

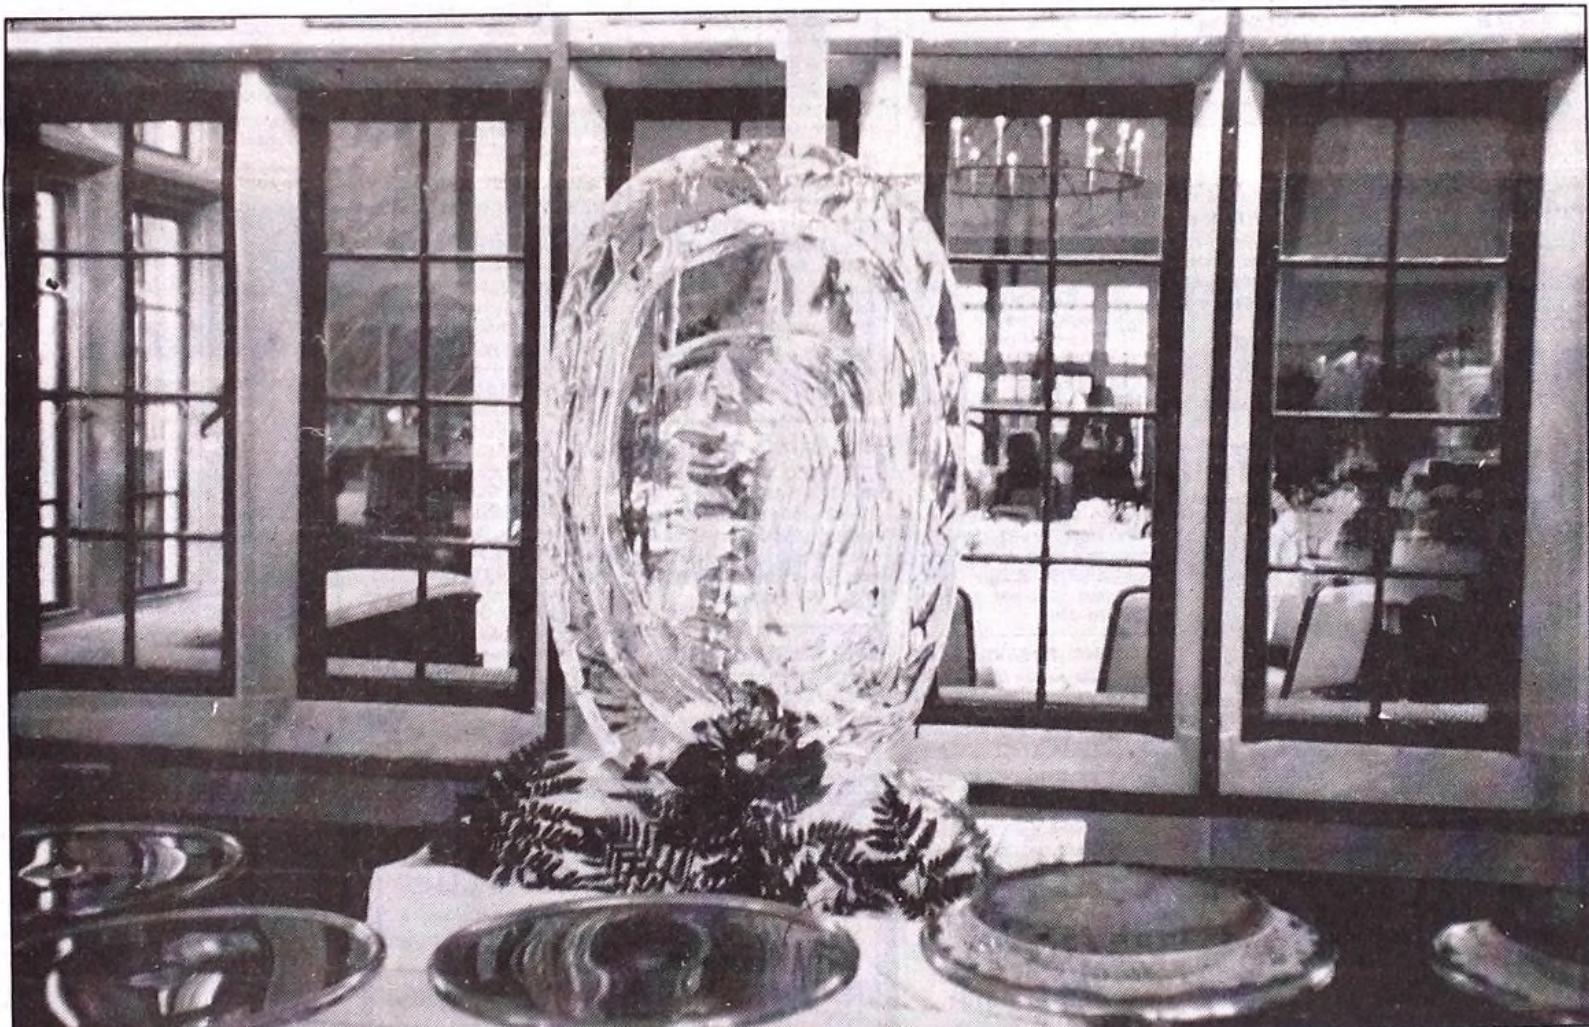

"I really enjoy it," Sokolowski said. "I'm really an outdoorsman. Cold weather doesn't bother me."

The most difficult masterpiece Sokolowski said he has ever created was the lion because it took six blocks of ice to construct the image.

"I carve to please myself, not the people that look at them," Sokolowski said. "They don't see the mistakes I do. I'm a perfectionist. I always make sure when I walk away I'm self gratified because, after all, it melts. You can't keep these art pieces like a drawing."

Sokolowski said besides carving, he enjoys looking at his work after it is completed.

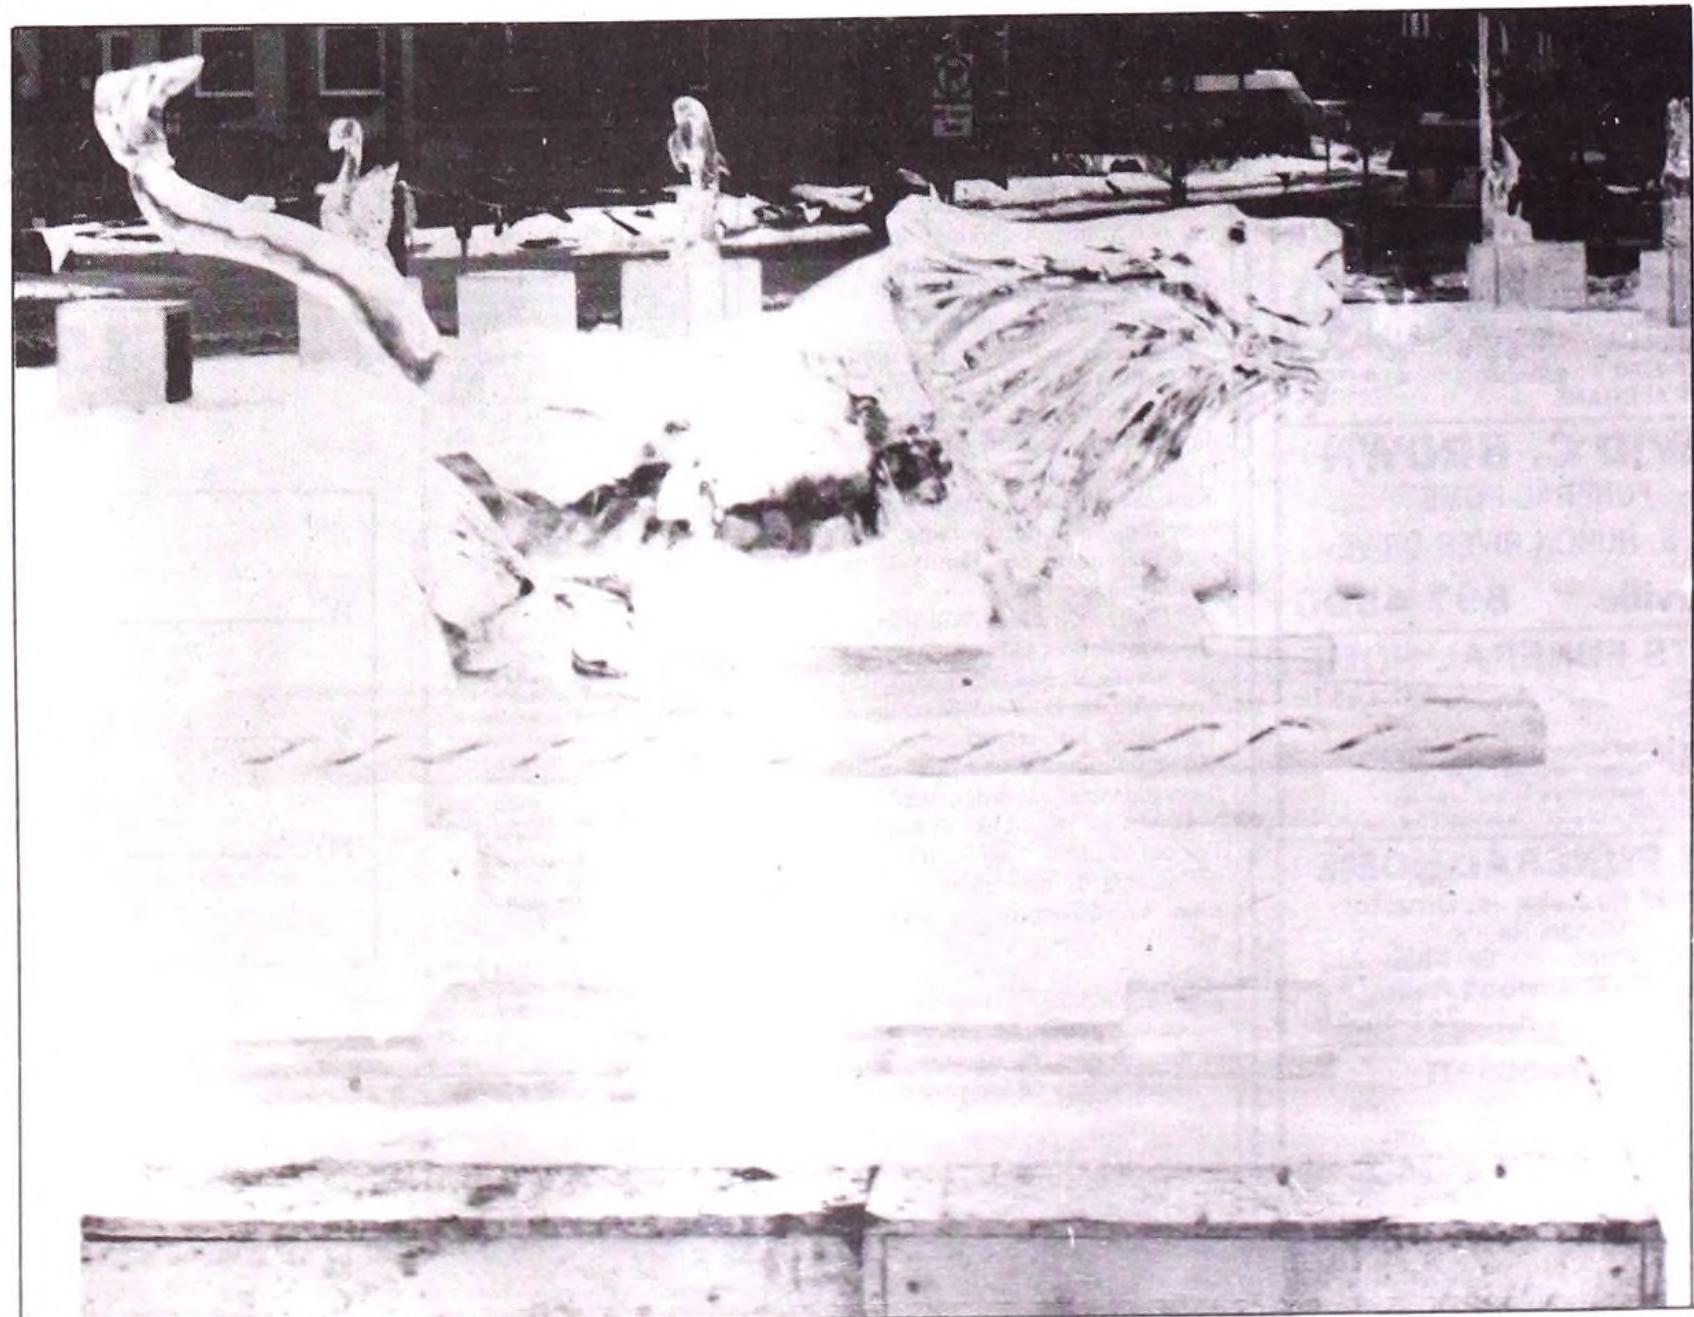

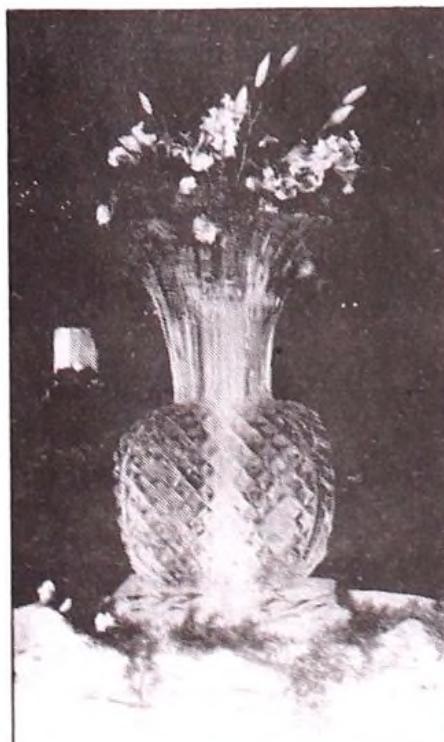

"I always change clothes after I finish a piece at a competition and go back to my work and listen to what all the people are saying about it," Sokolowski said. "I always try to be humble and not let them know I did the work."

"Drawing helps. If you can draw well, you can normally have the same flow of your hand as you do with the chisel."

Raymond & Michelle Milko Proud Parents of

MATTHEW EDWARD MILKO ARRIVED 12/26/93 @ 1:21 PM

The baby arrived before he was due, wanted to share Christmas with me & you!

He's named Matthew Edward - just as cute as can be, has fuzzy dark hair, as you'll soon see!

He weighed in at 4 pounds, plus 3 ounces more, seventeen inches long - but his weight will soar.

He's doing just fine - eating real well.

He should be home soon, & that will be swell.

Mommy & Daddy are happy and proud.

Don't know if they'll ever come down off that cloud.

We are all happy for them and share in their joy, and welcome to our family - our new little boy.

Composed by
"Grandma" Phyllis Burns

On November 30, 1993 our family suffered terribly as a result of a fire which destroyed our home, a fire in which almost everything we owned was lost. Along with my two youngest children and the family dog I was able to escape with no injuries having only the Lord to thank and thank him we have, many times!

This brings me to the reason of this letter. In the past month my family has shed many tears, tears that have been dried through the generosity and kindness shown to us by our community. We would like to thank the following organizations for their donations of food, clothing, money and toys that made our family Christmas a bright holiday.

The Garden City Free Will Baptist Church

The Wayne Post Office

The Wayne-Westland School District

The William D. Ford Vocational Center

The Wayne Fire Department

The kindness and professionalism of these organizations will never be forgotten.

Finally we would like to thank our families and all of our friends for standing by us and seeing us through this very difficult time. We're positive that with all of this wonderful support we will be able to place this terrible event in the past and concentrate on building a beautiful new house which will in time become as much a home as the one we lost.

Thank you again and may God bless you all!

Wheels

An easy car care quiz

Car troubles can be deceiving. It often takes an astute, well equipped technician to track down the source of a problem. But some of the most common difficulties can be diagnosed with a little common sense by the owner. Such is the case in this series of five situations suggested by the Car Care Council. Each question has three correct answers.

- If the tread on your tires is wearing
  - tire pressure is incorrect.
  - the car has binding ball joints.
  - the wheels are misaligned.

- the wheels are out of balance.
- If your turn signal doesn't flash properly, the reason could be:
  - a burned out bulb.
  - a bad connection.
  - a defective flasher.
  - an inoperative ignition switch.
- Three reasons for a car to become a "gas-hog" are:
  - a dirty air filter.
  - the power steering belt is adjusted too tight.
  - low tire pressure.
  - worn spark plugs.
- The reasons your brakes may squeal or vibrate are:

- oil on the brake linings.
- worn disc brake pads or linings.
- normal vibrations set up by semi-metallic linings.
- loose components on one or more wheels.
- A battery goes dead because of:
  - old age.
  - a faulty alternator.
  - excessive high speed.
- All but "b" are correct.
- All but "d" are correct.
- All but "b" are correct.
- All but "a" are correct.
- All but "c" are correct.
